CHAMBERLIN BEGINS "MYSTERY FLIGHT"

"LINDY" SAILS AMID CHEERS OF FRENCHMEN

U. S. Light Cruiser Memphis Leaves Port at Cherbourg at 4:30 P. M.

BOATS CROWD ABOUT SHIP

Lindbergh Flies from Le-Bourget to Lessay in French Plane

Cherbourg, France — (AP) — Bearing Captain Charles A. Lindbergh home to new triumphs the crack American light cruiser Memphis steamed out of this port Saturday, while the young aviator waved farewell to the Europe that has honored him so highly for his exploit in spanning the Atlantic from New York to Paris in a non-stop single man flight.

The Memphis, aboard which Captain Lindbergh embarked at 3:35 Saturday afternoon, after a flight from Paris, sailed from the ancient maritime port of Cherbourg at 4:30.

Lindbergh arrived here by motor from the air field at Lessay, where he landed at 11:48 in the forenoon from Le Bourget field, near Paris, which was the termination of his record-breaking flight from New York two weeks ago.

FLIES FRENCH PLANE

He flew from Le Bourget Saturday in a fast French pursuit plane of the type known among French pilots as "neck-breakers," and watching airmen heaved a sight of relief when he came down safely on Lessay field.

Arriving at the airdrome at Lessay, 40 miles from Cherbourg, Captain Lindberg received another of the ovations to which he has become reconciled.

The official reception committee was quickly at his side, and the mayor of Lessay read a long speech. It was in French, but Lindy listened attentively and smiled his appreciation of the sentiments he knew were being expressed. Lindbergh's party went then to Cherbourg where a multitude had assembled to bid him farewell.

CROWD AROUND SHIP

Motor launches, tugboats, skiffs and fishing vessels were in great demand. Newspapermen and photographers competed for them with towns folk who wanted to get a closer view of the Memphis than could be had from shore. The whole butter, egg and apple country of Normandy joined in the celebration.

Towns all over the region marking the route of the flier from Paris to Cherbourg were beflagged with the stars and stripes for the first time since the armistice. The two day Whitsuntide holiday furnished an excellent occasion for the Normans to devote themselves to the world's air hero.

STILL POPULAR IDOL

Paris—(AP)—Captain Lindbergh on the day of his departure was just as much a popular idol, as when he landed two weeks ago, thanks to tactful piloting by Ambassador Herrick and his own unassuming self. Those who feared his return from London might be, an anti-climax had qualms for nothing.

He spent his last evening in the French capital among aviators, Swedes and members of the American legion, and did his best to avoid undue publicity. Despite the secretiveness surrounding some of his visits, crowds managed to gather wherever he went. Embassy attendants were kept busy receiving gifts for the airman.

When he visited the Paris post of the American Legion he was made an honorary member.

"I had hoped to remain over long enough to see the legion convention in Paris," he remarked, "even though I am too young to have been a member"—his speech was punctuated here by the shout from all parts of the room, "you are a member."

CABARETS HONOR HIM

There was a small informal dinner party at the American embassy and the flier retired early. As he slept the Paris cabarets were resounding with songs in his honor.

E. F. Mahoney, president of the Ryan Aircraft corporation which built the Spirit of St. Louis, and Raymond Orteig, donor of the $25,000 prize for a flight across the Atlantic between New York and Paris, are sailing aboard the Mauretania Saturday in order to be among the welcomers when Lindy reaches New York.

It was a morning brilliant sunshine when Captain Lindbergh, smiling as usual and obviously glad to get the

By their victory Borotra and La Coste entered the final of the doubles where they will come against Henry Cochet and Jacquez Brugnon, making it an all-French fair. Cochet and Brugnon reached the final by defeating Louis Raymond and J. Condon of South Africa, in five sets at 6-3, 4-6, 4-6, 6-2, 6-3.

CONFERENCE ASKS U. S. TO WORK OUT FLOOD RELIEF PLAN

No Hint of Demanding Extra Congress Session at Meeting in Chicago

Chicago—(AP)—The flood control conference called by the mayors of Chicago, New Orleans and St. Louis, unanimously adopted resolutions Saturday characterizing flood control as a national problem, calling upon governmental agencies to supply immediate relief for sufferers, requesting President Coolidge to appoint a conference to arrive at definite conclusions for permanent protection and demanding that congress press the matter to a solution. Permanent organization was affected and the conference was adjourned.

Other resolutions warmly commended the American Red Cross for its relief work during the present Mississippi river flood and commended the mayors of Chicago, New Orleans and St. Louis for calling the conference.

There was no hint of a demand for an extra session of congress. Three resolutions stressed in general three proposals for flood control-levess, spillways and reservoirs, "all of which should be considered."

"Immediate and effective relief" for all sufferers was urged, but no suggestion was offered as to the manner of extending it.

BADGERS ORGANIZE

CAL REVIEWS 96 WARSHIPS FROM YACHT

Greater Part of Nation's Sea Strength Passes President's Mayflower

Cape Henry, Va.—(AP)—Ninety-six warships of the United States fleet lay tugging at their anchors in Hampton Roads Saturday awaiting the signal to steam in grand review before President Coolidge.

Tidewater, Va. is accustomed to fleet parades and war time naval concentrations, but not since President Roosevelt saw the fleet off around the world from here 20 years ago an I witnessed its triumphal return, has there been such a peace time gathering of war vessels.

Thousands of persons were out to witness the great spectacle. It was to be President Coolidge's first glimpse of the fleet. The last review here was by President Harding in April, 1921.

The war craft, ranging from the mightiest battleship to the indispensible mine sweeping tug, and carrying 23,000 officers and men, were stretched out for several miles between Old Point Comfort and Newport News early Saturday awaiting the start of the review, tentatively set at 12:30 in the afternoon.

REPRESENTS NATION'S POWER

The fleet was composed for the view of 12 battleships, 4 cruisers, 46 destroyers, 4 aircraft tenders; 4 mine layers and sweepers and ten auxiliaries. It represented the bulk of the nation's entire sea strength, although more than 70 vessels, including six battleships were denied participation in the review because of duty in foreign waters or undergoing repairs.

Near Old Point was the presidential yacht Mayflower with the President and Mrs. Coolidge and their guests aboard.

When abeam of the Mayflower, officers and men of each warship were to salute, the marine guards present arms, the drums given four ruffles and the bugles sound a quartet of flourishes, while the ships bands were to play the "star spangled banner."

MAN ARRESTED AS ROBBERY SUSPECT

River Forest Resident Alleged One of Pair in "Father and Son" Combination

Milwaukee—(AP)—Albert Herman, 43, River Forest, Ill., was in jail here Saturday on five charges of assault and robbery, police claiming he is the "father" of the "father and son" duet of bandits, who chose shopkeepers and garage owners on the outskirts of Milwaukee as their victims.

Two deputy sheriffs sought the son near Fond du Lac early Saturday without result, following reports that he was in hiding near that city.

Herman Protested his innocence, but three victims of the father and son combination were reported by police as having identified the suspects. One the robberies was in Racine-co.

The suspect was returned here from River Forest, his home. He waived extradition at the suggestion of his attorney, Ray Cannon.

GREEN BAY MAN FACES EMBEZZLEMENT CHARGE

Green Bay —(AP)— Embezzlement of more than $9,000 belonging to the Green Bay and Western Kewanee, Green Bay and Western railroads, was charged against Anton Hendricks, youthful cashier at the local freight station, in a complaint sworn out in municipal court by J. C. Thurman, general auditor. Hendricks was arraigned Saturday morning and pleaded not guilty. The youth was remanded to jail in default of $4,000 bond and his preliminary examination was set for June 10. Hendricks is about 28 years of age and was recently married.

Illinois Fund Litigation Reported Near Settlement

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Settlement out of court of the $1,000,000 interest suit against Governor Len Small of Illinois, Saturday ended six years of litigation, with a stipulation clearing the governor of the charge of pocketing the money himself. The governor agreed to pay $650,000 and costs.

Springfield, Ill.—(AP)—Six years of litigation over the interest on state funds Governor Len Small is alleged to have withheld during his term as state treasurer, has reached the day of accounting, coincident with published reports that an out-of-court settlement has been reached.

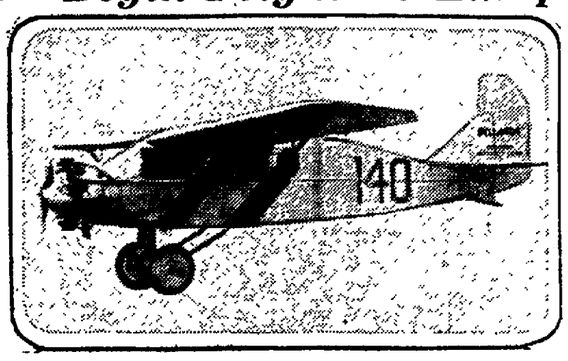

Newspaper accounts said the agreement, worked out by Attorney General Carlstrom, representing the state, and W. W. Schroeder chief counsel for Governor Small, would be for $650,000, carrying a stipulation clearing the name of the executive of all implication that he received any money paid as interest on the public funds entrusted to him from 1917 to 1919.

The stipulation holds, according to the published versions, that the $650,000 was received by Governor Small's co-defendants, Verne S. Curtis, Grant Park, Ill., and the estate of state Senator Edward C. Curtis.

The settlement, it was understood, would be communicated Saturday by attorneys for both sides to Circuit Judge Frank Burton just before the time set for presentation of the final report of Charles H. Briggle, master in chancery, who has been taking documentary and oral evidence for several months.

Should the judge approve the settlement, it was considered likely that Briggles report, which was understood to set a figure of approximately $500,000 would be unnecessary thus ending the civil suit.

YOUTH SHOOTING AT CROWS INJURES GIRL

Mary Struck, 615 W. Fifth-st, Is in Hospital, but Injuries Are Not Serious

An 8-year-old girl was accidentally shot in the right shoulder with a 22 calibre bullet Friday afternoon while walking along the railroad tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad a few rods west of the shanty of George Catlin, flagman, in the vicinity of the S. Cherry-st bridge. She was Mary Struck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orson Struck, 615 W. Fifth-st.

Her injuries are not thought to be serious, it was announced Friday night following an examination at St. Elizabeth hospital. Two X-ray pictures were taken but the bullet could not be found. The bullet probably struck the shoulder blade and glanced off, according to her physician.

The shot was fired by Lionel Weyenberg, 818 W. Spencer-st, according to police. Weyenberg's companion, Howard Fumal, 102 W. Spencer-st, reported at police headquarters Saturday morning that the two boys were shooting at crows in that neighborhood Friday afternoon.

When they discovered that one of the shots had struck the girl, they became frightened and hid the gun under a pile of grass, young Fumal told police officers. Saturday morning the lad thought it advisable to report the matter. No action will be taken against the youths, police indicated.

The injured girl was walking with Mrs. Archie Kapp, 614 W. Fifth-st, the latter's 10-year-old daughter, Ruth, and a third child.

Upon hearing the cries of the children, Mr. Catlin, who was near his shanty, ran over to the injured girl and carried her to his home. He summoned a physician who took the girl to the hospital.

AMERICAN GOLFERS LEADING BRITONS

Finish First in Four Matches at Close of 18 Holes at Worcester Meet

Worcester, Mass—(AP)—The American golf team led in four matches at the close of the first 18 holes of 36, to decide possession of the Ryder cup, international trophy.

Joe Tunesa put the American team into the running again when he finished the first 18 holes, one up, on George Duncan. Leo Diegel's bold golf and good putting earned him an advantage of six holes over Captain Ted Ray of the British teams. John Golden was six up on Herbert Jolly.

Bill Mehlhorn and Archie Compson, first to finish the morning round of the 35 hole singles, were all square. Mehlhorn won the eighteenth hole to even matters when he drove over 300 yards.

Farrell's ability to putt enabled him to finish all even with Aubrey Booner, the Quaker Ridge pro, getting a 20-foot put home to halve the eighteenth after he had been trapped with his second. Charles Whitcombe was two up on Gene Sarazen, when they holed out on the eighteenth green.

Walter Hagen was one up on Arthur Havers at the intermission. Coming to the home hole two down, the British player was down in a birdie three, reducing the American captain's advantage to one hole.

Fred Robeson finished the morning round one up on Al Watrous when the American made a short second shot into a trap and then took an extra putt on the eighteenth hole.

AL SMITH, REED ARE BEST BETS OF DEMOCRATS

New York Governor or Missouri Senator May Be Party Candidate

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

Copyright, 1927, by Post Pub. Co.

Washington—If the opinion of 800 leading Republicans on who is the most likely to be the Democratic candidate counts for anything, Governor Al Smith and Senator James Reed of Missouri, are in the lead with public sentiment at the moment.

James Francis Burke of Pennsylvania, former member of congress, spent a half hour on Thursday with President Coolidge. More than a year ago he began writing letters to discover just who were the ten most influential and best posted men in particular communities. In that way, he developed what he believes is a quick way of determining the trend in politics. He found in his replies that Mr. Coolidge was the overwhelming choice of the poll and that very little mention was made of the third term issue.

DEMOCRATIC CANDIDATE

It is with respect to the Democratic race that the Burke poll is interesting for it shows just which Democratic candidates are most feared. The candidacy of Governor Smith is considered by most of the republicans to be progressing but their second choice is Jim Reed of Missouri. The truth is the senator has more frequently voted with the Republicans on questions of foreign policy such as the league of nations and the world court than he has with the Democrats. In the last congress he expressed the opinion that the hands of President Coolidge should be upheld in the Mexican dispute. This attitude is believed to have won him many friends in the Republican ranks.

But as a distinguished senator once said to the late President Harding "you may be right, but you don't vote in the primaries in our district," so the Democratic leaders may comment on the fact that the choice of a Democratic nominee will be made on the basis of what appeals to Democrats.

REED ATTRACTS ATTENTION

The important thing, however, is that Senator Jim Reed's candidacy is attracting attention. His tour of the south is doubtless to get second choice promises. Many a candidate has made headway in a convention because he has accumulated second choice pledges. Mr. Reed is a "wet" but he is invading the dry south just the same and is such a forceful speaker that he usually makes friends wherever he speaks.

However, the Wilson wing of the Democratic party which is by no means an inconsiderable factor, would hardly accept the Missouri senator. The wounds of the Wilson days have not healed. If it took a majority vote to win a nomination, things might be different, but with the two-thirds rule, the votes of one-third can block any nomination. At the present writing most of the McAdoo men and Wilson leaders are refusing to take the Reed candidacy seriously, and are insisting he will be eliminated. The poll taken by Mr. Burke may not, as he remarked at the outset, count for anything as to the Democratic race, but it is significant that outside the party the effort of Jim Reed to win the presidential nomination is not looked upon as inconsequential.

NO VERDICT REACHED BY CORONER'S JURY IN MURDER AT ELEVA

Unofficial Reports Say Several Persons Will Be Arrested for Slaying

Eau Claire—(AP)—A third adjournment, without reaching a verdict, was taken Friday night by the coroner's jury at Eleva investigating the murder of Harold Munson, bachelor farmer, whose dead body was found Friday of last week in a ditch a few yards from the back door of his farm home, just a mile outside of the village.

The jury was in secret session all day Friday and a number of witnesses, mostly neighbors of the farmer, were questioned, but no statement as to progress made was given out by District Attorney E. E. Barlow or Coroner J. E. Rhode after the jury ended its deliberations Friday night. However, it was persistently reported that arrests were near and that more than one person would be involved. The jury was adjourned, subject to call, which is expected to be Monday.

Munson's death was due to one or more crushing blows on the head with some blunt instrument for the skull was badly fractured for six inches above the right ear. It is understood that evidence placed before the jury indicated that more than one person took part in the attack. The time of the murder seems definitely placed as Wednesday night, May 25.

MICHIGAN, WISCONSIN AGREE ON NEW BRIDGE

Marinette—(AP)—The highway commission of Wisconsin and Michigan reached a speedy settlement and agreement on the proposed construction of middle interstate bridge between Marinette and Menominee, Mich., Friday in less than two hours after the deliberations were began.

The conference, held in private, virtually agreed that the bridge would be built and that the cost of approximately $50,000 would be equally borne by the two states.

The bridge will be a steel structure of the cantilever type with a 40-foot roadway and a six foot sidewalk. The commissions also urged that the two cities, drop their "child's play" and get down to serious business. It is probable that the present bridges will be open to restricted traffic directly with present impediments removed.

HOPS OFF WITH PLANE OWNER AS COMPANION

Charles A. Levine Keeps Plans Secret to Spare Anxiety of His Wife

MAKE START AT 6:05 A. M.

European Destination Still Unnamed but Thought to Be Berlin

BULLETIN

Yarmouth, N. S.—(AP)—The Columbia flew directly over Yarmouth at 12:06 eastern daylight time this afternoon. Chamberlin was flying very low and watchers plainly saw the distinguishing marks. She was upwards of one hour and a half behind Lindbergh's time for the same distance.

BULLETIN

Washington—(AP)— Representative Hamilton Fish, Jr., of New York, told coast guard headquarters here Saturday that Rome would be the objective of the Bellanca flight, in the event the plane functioned smoothly and the weather was good. He based his information, he said, on a conversation with Mrs. Charles A. Levine, wife of the backer of the flight.

Roosevelt Field, New York—(AP)—A mysterious trans-Atlantic flight began Saturday. Seated side by side in the Bellanca monoplane Columbia, designed for trans-oceanic flying, Clarence D. Chamberlin, holder of the world's endurance record for flying, and Charles A. Levine, managing director of the Columbia Air corporation, hopped off at 6:05 Saturday morning, daylight saving time, for a flight to an unnamed European destination, presumably Berlin.

It was a dramatic moment as they soared aloft from the runway, where, on May 21, Captain Charles A. Lindbergh began his epoch flight to Paris. Levine sat beside Chamberlin, clad in an ordinary business suit. There was no hat on his head. Neither showed any emotion as they prepared for the flight. Who Chamberlin's companion really would be was not known by spectators until Levine climbed into the cockpit.

In Garden City hotel, several miles away Mrs. Wylda Chamberlin, pilot's wife, was in great anxiety. She had said previously that she knew her husband was taking his life in his hands. So she stayed away from the field, to keep in her mind a picture of him that she treasured, saying goodbye to him at the hotel, but Mrs. Levine, wife of the surprise companion of Chamberlin, was on the runway. She said she did not know who was going with Chamberlin. And when her husband stepped into the cockpit and waved goodbye to her she was as much surprised as any spectator, she said later.

MRS. LEVINE NERVOUS

When Levine stepped abruptly into the plane, its motor throbbing for the take-off, his wife hurried forward in apparent surprise. A police captain tried to reassure her, saying her husband was "only going to make a test."

Then the Bellanca shot down the runway on a false start. When it returned to its starting point for the second attempt, Mrs. Levine appeared pale and nervous. A moment later the Bellanca shot down the runway again. Mrs. Levine staring after it in agonized amazement. "You ought to be proud of him," said John Carisi, factory superintendent for the Columbia Aircraft corporation. "He's a very brave man."

Mrs. Levine could not reply. She became hysterical, sobbing wildly and gesticulating in great excitement. She was taken to the Garden City hotel.

The deftly designed monoplane lifted itself clear of the earth about 2,000 feet from where the spectators stood. A flight that had kept millions in anticipation for weeks was under way at last.

MAKE FALSE START

The start of the plane was preceded by a false one. Several hundred spectators stood around the Columbia as it was being groomed for the take off. There was not much cheering as the plane was towed into position. But when the hop-off was made, cries of "there she goes!" were added to the din made by the roaring motor.

The landing gear of the Columbia had been prepared for dropping in flight in case of a descent at sea. There was no radio aboard, and only a collapsible rubber raft was taken to provide for Chamberlin and Levine keeping themselves afloat in case of an ocean descent. Signal material and apparatus was taken, to be used in case of distress.

The navigation instruments carried were similar to those carried by Captain Lindbergh, including an earth inductor compass. Levine's record for flying was not known at the field. Aviators said they did not think he was a licensed pilot. But they recalled that he made flights, some with Chamberlin.

LEVINE FIRST PASSENGER

Levine is virtually the first transoceanic passenger aviators said. He was dressed as for a day's work at the office and casually waved goodbye to his wife. There were an extra helmet and aviator's suit in the plane.

Friends of Levine said that his reason for not disclosing his intention of accompanying Chamberlin was due to

Chamberlin Set World Flight Record In April

New York—(AP)—Clarence Chamberlin, who has hopped off a flight that he does not expect to end until he reaches European soil, has won two signal air victories. He demonstrated his ability to keep a plane in the air and to get it down.

With Bert Acosta as a flying companion he made a record breaking endurance flight in April when the same Bellanca plane, used in the New York Paris flight, remained aloft 51 hours, 11 minutes and 20 seconds. The estimated distance covered was more than 3,600 miles, and if Chamberlin can straighten that performance out success is assured for him.

Ten days after this flight Chamberlin showed that in an emergency he could dispense with his landing gear and get down in safety without it. Flying with two little girls and a mechanic as companions he was advised that his landing gear had fallen apart. By skillful maneuvering he finally landed on one side but nevertheless reasonably right side up with no injury to his passengers and little damage to the plane.

The endurance flight was started Tuesday morning, April 13 and ended Thursday afternoon, bettering the previous world mark of 45 hours, 11 minutes and 59 seconds made by two French lieutenants over Etampes, Aug. 7, 8, 9, 1925. The American record was formerly held by Oakley G. Kelly and John A. Macready, 36 hours, 4 minutes and 36 seconds, established April 16, 17, 1923.

The plane carried 3,080 pounds, including the important items of 385 gallons of gasoline and 21 gallons of oil.

TAX PROBLEMS STILL STUMP LEGISLATORS AFTER SIX MONTHS

Lawmakers Work Day and Night to Hurry Through Their Program

Madison—(AP)—Swinging into the sixth month of the present session, Wisconsin's legislature continued night and day working hours during the week with tax problems still holding the center of interest.

The senate killed a bill by Senator Caldwell which would have placed a 4 cent tax on gasoline together with a flat $5 rate for licenses, while the assembly passed a senate bill providing for the licensing of all motorists. It calls for certain tests and qualifications before a driver is privileged to operate a car under a Wisconsin license.

Following a second opinion from the attorney general's office declaring Senator Sauthoff's permanent registration bill constitutional the upper house overrode Governor Zimmerman's veto of the measure by a 27 to 1 vote. The governor vetoed the bill when a hurried opinion from the attorney general held that it was in violation of the state constitution. Sponsored by the League of Women Voters, the bill would provide for the permanent registration of voters in cities over 5,000 population.

Lower house action favored the interim committee bill which would place bank taxation on an income basis rather than capital stock. Assemblyman Ingall's bill, providing for party state and county conventions prior to primary elections was voted indefinite postponement, however, by a vote of 53 to 32.

The same body killed a senate bill which would require all law school graduates to take the state bar examinations. Reconsideration was granted in view of the fact that a tie vote resulted in the defeat of the measure. It would require University of Wisconsin graduates to take the examinations.

Engrossment of a bill calling for the appointment of an interim committee to investigate the "chain store" system in Wisconsin was also voted by the lower house. A joint resolution, passed at the closing session of the week, asks President Coolidge to stop over in Madison and address the legislature while enroute to South Dakota.

The senate passed Senator Mehigan's bill allowing decision boxing bouts in the state and also voted to increase salaries of circuit court judges from $6,500 to $8,000.

WOULD PERPETUATE MEMORY OF HIGHWAYS

Chicago —(AP)— The Wisconsin Society of Chicago cooperating with the Wisconsin State Historical committee has appropriated money with the idea of perpetuating the memory of the most noted Wisconsin highways.

The Society has selected as the first highway to be marked the Chicago-Green Bay road, established by the United States government in 1834. This summer members of a committee will supervise the erection of, at one mile intervals, pillars bearing bronz tablets with historic inscriptions thereon.

This summer's project includes the placing of markers on the section between the Illinois line and the city of Milwaukee. In future years the entire line to Green Bay will be marked and after that the Military Road from Ft. Howard, Green Bay via Ft. Winnebago to Ft. Crawford and Prairie du Chien.

The Chicago-Green Bay road in this state is nearly identical, as far north as Milwaukee, with state trunk highways 15 and 17. Northward from Milwaukee numbers 57, 42 and 16 follow the old road to Green Bay.

Sunshine As Builder Of Health Performs Wonders

Madison—Sunshine is one of the magic workers in the world as a health builder, declares a bulletin issued by the health committee of the State Medical society. The man who lives in the city has every reason to envy the farmer who spends much of his time in the sunlight. Experimental work has greatly demonstrated that there is a marked tendency to anemia in many people who spend most of their lives indoors during the winter months.

"Sunshine can be literally lapped up by the skin and ultimately reach even the marrow of our bones," declares the Medical Society bulletin in approving a recent statement published by the American Medical Association. "We burn or tan in sunlight by reason of its ultraviolet content. Most of us bleach in winter solely because we almost literally sew ourselves into our winter clothes and make hot-house plants of ourselves. The ultraviolet rays do not penetrate deeply. As a matter of fact they are only skin-deep in their direct power or action. But they act on the cells in the skin, they are absorbed by the blood in the skin capillaries and are thereby productive of chemical reactions that are systematic in their effects.

"The storage of sunshine and the absorption of ultraviolet energy in body tissues are, without doubt, very complex processes, or at least so appear in the knowledge of today. But it has long been known that our foods are literally canned or bottled sunshine.

"Sunshine is almost as much of a magic worker in animals as in plants, although the wonders performed are of a different character. Plants are the great conservers of energy; animals are the great dissipaters and users of energy. But if a man lives in the sunshine, he too becomes to a degree a conserver of energy. It is estimated that the outdoor dweller receives a thousand times more sunlight than the indoor dweller gets. But more important still, he who lives outdoors with the God of the open-air receives millions of times more ultraviolet radiation than he who lives behind the transparent sands of the window pane, for this robs the sunshine of its ultraviolet content in large measure.

"Scientists know that one of the most important things in the world is sunlight. As yet they are ignorant about many of its attributes and effects. They do not know for sure why light stimulates and heat depresses; why some people tan and others do not; why those who pigment most easily get the greatest benefit out of sunlight treatments; why foods that contain vitamins ,such as vitamin D, which is so essential to the growth of bone, develop considerable quantities of these essential substances under exposure to light; why tuberculosis affects cattle in proportion to the time they live under cover and away from sunshine; why the calcium and phosphorus content in milk from pasture-fed cows is greater than from cows living in the shade and fed on dry fodder; why irradiating the cow or even the milk gives a food that is effective in preventing and curing rickets and other metabolic disturbances in growing children.

"Sunlight cures rickets and is a big factor in stamping out of consumption. A few minutes' exposure to outdoor sunlight daily has been known to increase almost twofold, the quantity of phosphorus in a baby's blood in a few weeks' time. The rays of the sun materially increase the iron content of the blood and help to keep us from becoming anemic."

INK STAINS WORRYING CONTRACTORS OF UNION

Madison—(AP)—Stains made by ink, thrown by participants in one of the recent strike disturbances, are causing considerable worry on the part of builders of the University of Wisconsin Memorial Union, and by heads of the University. The ink will have to be removed from several stones in the in the building walls, or the stones will have to be replaced.

Prof. Louis Kahlenberg, of the University chemistry department has a chemical devise by which he claims he would be able to remove the stains permanently, without damage to the Bedford stone.

But Arthur Peabody, state architect, declines to have the building used "as an experiment."

Removal of the stones would mean tearing all of the wall that has so far been built above the bluestaned pieces, at considerable cost, Mr. Peabody said: "I do not believe I shall allow Prof. Kahlenberg to attempt to remove the stain in that way. Should the stain return in a few years as a yellow or green blotch it would be a permanent advertisement of what happened at the Memorial Union building while it was in process of construction. It would be much better to remove all the stained stones and destroy all trace of that night forever."

Prof. Kahlenberg, when informed that the state architect considered his plan an experiment said, "I have a great deal of respect for Mr. Peabody, but he is an architect, not a chemist."

OUTDOOR EMPLOYES ARE INCREASING, REPORT INDICATES

Factory Employment Decreases, However, As Warm Weather Approaches

Madison —(AP)—The season increase in the number of outdoor employes and decrease in factory employment is noted in the state industrial commission's report Monday.

Factory employment declines 1.8 per cent from March to April, the industrial commission figures show, "while the number of outdoor employe showed a large increase."

The report says:

"The manufacturing industries to show decreases in the number of employes were as follows: Metal working, woodworking, leather, textiles, and foods. The manufacturing industries showing increases were paper, light and power, printing and publishing, laundering and chemicals.

"The outdoor industries showing increases were agriculture, building, highway construction, railroad construction.

"As compared with a year ago the number of factory employees is 5.1 per cent less while other industries show a mixture of increases and decreases. The factory industries to show increases were rubber paper, food products, light and power, printing and publishing and laudering."

"The report gives the following review by cities:

Milwaukee—An oversupply of common labor for construction as well as factory work. Construction industries are busy but local supply of skilled tradesmen is in excess of present requirements.

Many factories show curtailment in their working force. However, there is still a shortage of good machinists and toolmakers. Butchers for packing houses in good demand.

Oshkosh—Local labor market greatly improved. Building tradesmen in good demand while factory employment is favorable. Shortage of experienced farm hands. Splendid openings for cooks and domestics in private homes. A surplus of office help, both male and female, continues.

Green Bay—An unusually large building program is greatly retarded by excessive rains. Projects under way are: Additions to hospitals, an auditorium addition to the East Side High school, road work. There is still a large surplus of unskilled and semiskilled laborers. Calls for farm hands are well taken care of, and the demand for occasional laborers is good.

..Racine—Racine factories average about 85 per cent full time and capacity operations and are not taking on any additional men excepting skilled tradesmen and such as may be needed to replace the usual labor turnover. Building projects in the next few months amount to about two million dollars. Constructions work has been slow on account of bad weather.

Wausau—An unprecendent volume of construction work planned for this year such of which is already under contract, operations are delayed by rainy weather. Factory employment gaining but there is a surplus of both common and skilled factory hands. Labor take notice of the present oversupply of workers in the city of Wausau.

Wausau—An unprecedented volume common and transient labor. Orders for men to work in logging camps have fallen off. Existing buildings except in a few cases where large construction jobs are nearing completion.

Workers for summer resorts are being called for.

FIND BUSINESS IS BETTER WHEN FARM PRICES ARE LOWER

Federal Economist Declares High Farm Prices Indicate Less Prosperity

BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington—Let's try to take the soft pedal off real reason the industrial east has so vigorously opposed the hopes and plans of the agricultural west for federal farm relief.

Millions of farmers must have put it down to plain cussedness, but there is much better reason to believe that it is traceable to an intelligent self-interest.

For a government analyst has just advanced the theory that agricultural prosperity means industrial depression, and agricultural depression means industrial prosperity. This theory is said to be based on the experience of this country over a period of 50 years.

All this, of course, is directly opposite to common belief. Hard times for the farmer, it was reiterated again and again, meant hard times for everyone. With loss of the great rural market through the farmer's inability to buy, factories would curtail,, millions be thrown out of work and the country be in a bad way.

OLD THEORY BLASTED

It was a great theory and the farmers played it for all it was worth, but it now appears that the farmers were only kidding themselves and the public, while industry knew all along that it just didn't work out that way—or industry would have been as hot as anyone for farm relief.

The Department of Agriculture has found through the study of its economist, L .H. Bean, that business and manufacturing interests have been as prosperous if not more prosperous in periods of low agricultural prices. It has found, furthermore, that whereas low farm product prices have been accompanied by industrial expansion and prosperity, high agricultural prices have forecast industrial slumps.

The last five or six years, as everyone knows, have seen industrial prosperity and agricultural distress. Bean points out that similar conditions existed in the years following 1878-9, 1884-5, 1896-7, 1914-5 and 1921-22, all periods of relatively low crop prices followed by industrial recovery. The only "apparent exceptions" noted were 1904-5 and 1908-9.

"On the other hand," he says, "years when crop prices were high have marked the close of periods of industrial prosperity, suggesting that a shortage of foodstuffs and agricultural raw materials may be an important factor in a business depression."

Bean points out further that abundant farm production, generally meaning low farm prices, means ample business for transportation companies and handlers of farm products; that by furnishing industry with cheap raw materials, it strengthens manufacturers in their struggle for markets; that large crops moved at low prices are a stimulus to many lines of business; that cheap farm products release purchasing power that would otherwise be absorbed in living expenses, and that the great proportion of industry profits when money that the consuming public saves on food is spent for clothing, automobiles, radio sets and a thousand other things.

FARMERS ADMIT IT

Having had the old theory of economic equalization so thoroughly blasted, after hearing it for so many years, your correspondent dashed around to some of the leaders of farm organizations here who had so earnestly voiced it in the past. Surely they would kick and squirm at the Department of Agriculture's heresy.

It was said that this was the new trend of thought among many of the most intelligent and best informed leaders of agriculture, who realized that ours had become a highly industrial civilization and that the American manufacturer had a distinct preference for cheap raw materials and cheap food for the public.

This admission is made on the eve of what is likely to be a successful battle for government aid in the next Congress. The old theory probably will not be used any more in vain attempt to inveigle the industrial east. The farmer's case will be fought on its merits—and with plenty of attention to the political exigencies.

WORT IS PRESENT AT TRAFFIC GATHERING

R. G. Kort, traffic manager of the chamber of commerce, attended a meeting of shippers and receivers and a representative of commercial traffic organizations Thursday at the Wisconsin Hotel, Milwaukee, to make final plans for the development of the evidence and testimony to be introduced for Wisconsin in the Western Class Rate case. The meeting was called by the special traffic committee of the Wisconsin Manufacturers association, which is preparing evidence and data to be presented before the Interstate Commerce commission, covering the general rate situation for the state as a whole.

The meeting was the last before the presentation of Wisconsin's case before the commission on June 20, Mr. Wert said. Several plans were satisfactorily worked out for the hearing but nothing will be made public until that time. Suggestions of those present on their own rate problems formed the basis of the committee's evidence.

VOCATIONAL BOY ISSUES BOOKLET

"Berezes of 1927" Completed by One Student Distributed to Pupils

A booklet called "Breezes of 1927" was distributed to students at the Appleton vocational school this week as the completed project of Lloyd M. Lockin, 17, who selected the material, wrote the articles, edited the work, and set it into type. Mr. Lockin is an apprentice compositor employed at the Timmers Composition Co. and attends the vocational school part time. The booklet was printed at the school by the printing class.

Pictures of classes at the school and a cartoon by J. N. Darling, depicting the imminence and harm of ignorance illustrate the pamphlet. Classroom scenes include a cookery group at work in the school kitchen, the machine shop where mechanics are being trained, girls sewing in the domestic science room, and a view of the school's print shop.

Articles in the booklet consist of a review of a playlet presented by the commercial department in the spring; a story of the boys' cooking class conducted by Miss Mabel Burke; the recreation periods at the Y. M. C. DISEASE CONTROL LENGTHENS LIFE

Longevity in State Has Been Increased, Board of Health Reports

Madison —(AP)—Longevity has been increased in Wisconsin through the control of certain preventable diseases, and advance would also be made in checking constitutional diseases if the public would give early attention to the signs of such maladies and apply corrective measures.

Under the title "Periodic Examination of Apparently Healthy Persons," a new publication of the state board of health draws this lesson from mortality figures. Comparative tables are printed to show where the successes have been scored and the fields where the process of education has been less in vogue.

"A physical xamination of the apparently healthy person once or twice a year," says the bulletin, "is now considered to be of marked value in pointing out to the individual his defects or incipient symptoms of disease, with the hope that they may be limited or cured by a timely change of habit or diet or such remedial measures as the case may require."

From this record the board holds that in fifteen years typhoid fever in Wisconsin has been reduced more than 90 per cent, diptheria 66.5 per cent, tuberculosis 39.6 per cent, enteritis in infants 67.2 per cent, and acute articular rheumatism 64.7 per cent.

"These are diseases," it is added, "that have yielded to the better sanitation of our homes and schools and workshops, to the purification of our water supplies, to the safeguarding of milk and other food supplies, to specific medical remedies, and to the application of public health educational and control measures. As a result of this saving of life, more individuals than ever before are passing on through middle age to advanced years."

Emphasizing the need for periodic examinations, the bulletin said:

"Excessive overweight and under underweight are conditions which require careful attention. Cancer follows upon benign tumors and small harmless appearing growths. Human afflictions occur at any age and their early discovery is valuable at any time to life. A person of middle age, however, faces the prospect of the degenerative diseases and needs the periodical physical examination more than any other."

CHARGE MENASHA MAN DESERTED HIS CHILD

Case Against Frank Gawronski Held Open Until June 21

It was revealed that he started an action for divorce. Judge Goss adjourned the case until June 21. The matter of bond has not been decided upon as it was thought the man might be released on his own recognizance, should the investigation of the case warrant it.

The wife testified that he had deserted her and that he did not give her enough money to live on. The husband denied he deserted her and claimed he was "put out." He also denied his wife's charges of infidelity and drinking. Mrs. Gawronski, however, produced a witness who had seen him at various dances and roadhouses.

INDIANS SUBJECT TO CRIMINAL LAWS, RULE

Ashland—(AP)—Jerry Pero, an Indian on the Bad River Indian reservation who is charged with murder, is subject to the criminal laws of the state and may be prosecuted in the state courts. This was the sense of an opinion received here Thursday by G. Arthur Johnson, district attorney, from Attorney General John W. Reynolds.

Pero is accused of murder with Paul Moore, another Indian, in connection with the killing of M. F. Marks, Odanah druggist. The town is in the Indian Reservation.

The attorney general, answering District Attorney Johnson's request for an opinion as to the legal ability of the state to prosecute the two Indians, informed that inasmuch as Pero had been granted his "certificate of competency," he had been under the protection of the state's laws and was therefore liable to prosecution under them. The certificate grants the Indians certain rights and recognizes them as of certain degree of citizenship.

Mr. Reynolds informed the district attorney that he was not informed sufficiently as to the political status of Moore to rule on the property of state prosecution of the second accused.

COUNTY PRACTICALLY FREE OF CONTAGION

There is little or no contagion throughout Outagamie-co, according to Miss Marie Kline, county nurse. Only a few cases of measles were reported last week. A few victims of chicken pox in the northern part of the county about a week ago have practically recovered. There are no serious diseases such as scarlet fever, diptheria or small pox.

WET WEATHER FAILS TO DISCOURAGE DAN CUPID'S ACTIVITIES

Cold, wet weather all spring failed to discourage Dan Cupid in his activities, records on file at the office of John E. Hantschel, county clerk, indicate.

For despite disagreeable atmospheric conditions, 63 couples applied for marriage licenses at the clerks office last month. This marked an increase of 13 couples over May of last year and 40 over the preceding month of 1927. An average of more than two couples daily is seldom bettered very much, according to Mr. Hantschel.

DRAW NEW PLANS FOR STORM SEWER ON S. MASON-ST

Project Starts Just North of Viaduct and Runs About 500 Feet South

Because the previous plans for the storm sewer on S. Mason-st were considered by the board of public works to be inadequate to properly drain the street beneath the railroad viaduct, L. M. Schindler, city engineer, has prepared plans for a sewer which is being installed by the R. J. Wilson Construction company this week.

The previous plan provided for a sewer from W. Spencer-st to a point several hundred feet south of the viaduct. The sewer now with construction just north of the viaduct and joins a main trunk sewer about 500 feet south of the span. The contract for a sewer under the previous plan had been let to the R. J. Wilson company for $1,998, but the new sewer is only 600 feet long as compared with the 900 foot in the old plans and the cost is approximately $300 less.

The original distance from the pavement to the viaduct had been set at 14 feet but the street and bridges committee decided this was too high and Mr. Schindler has devised plan which permits a height of approximately 13 feet.

The previous plan provided for a sewer one foot beneath the surface of the pavement, but the new sewer will be four and one-half feet below the surface of the pavement.

The streets and bridges committee ordered the Coughlin company to stop excavating below the viaduct last week when it was learned that the 14 foot depth would cause a deep gully to be formed at that point. It was thought that the original drainage system would not care for storm waters and that after every rain the gully would be flooded.

The New

with Two High Speeds

merits a demonstration and your thoughtful consideration

Those who are contemplating the purchase of a fine motor car should withhold selection until they have driven this new Paige.

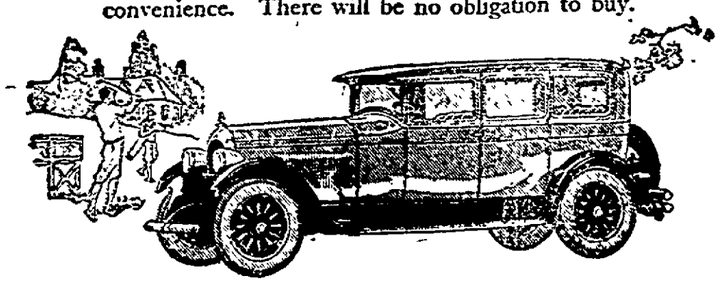

Many of these, after enjoying this experience, will doubtless find themselves accepting its performance as a standard by which to judge other cars.

Much of the difference in this car's performance lies in the mathematical fact that at high speeds its engine revolves much more slowly than engines normally do, due to its Warner Hi-Flex 4-speed transmission.

This new engineering accomplishment produces greater silence at all speeds, resulting in unusual gasoline economy. Because the engine makes fewer revolutions, it lasts longer, requires less attention, less frequent overhauling.

Third speed is another high speed, and delivers greatly improved acceleration, both in traffic and on steep hills.

We invite you to drive a new Paige "8" at your convenience. There will be no obligation to buy.

INJUNCTION SUIT AGAINST COUNTY TO OPEN MONDAY

Judge H. S. Cowie, LaCrosse, of Sixth Judicial Circuit to Sit in Case

Trial of the injunction suit brought against Outagamie-co by the city of Appleton, restraining Fred E. Bachman, city treasurer, from paying over approximately $100,482 in alleged illegal taxes to the county, will open at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the courthouse before Judge H. S. Cowie, La Crosse, of the Sixth Judicial district circuit court, attorneys were informed this week.

The trial will be the final step in the litigation, barring an appeal, and will determine whether the injunction will be made permanent or will be dissolved.

Appointment of Judge Cowie to sit in the case was announced several weeks ago by the board of circuit judges.

Alleging that the amount of county taxes in question is inequitable and a fraud upon the city, suit was started early in March.

Judge Edgar V. Werner granted a temporary injunction, but on his request the board of circuit judges released him from the case and appointed Judge Byron B. Park of Stevens Point.

Attorneys for both sides filed briefs with Judge Park, and he recently ruled that the temporary injunction would continue pending final trial. Judge Park also asked to be released from the case after he had announced his ruling, and the board appointed Judge Cowie.

A. H. Krusemeier, as special attorney, will appear for the city, and John A. Lonsdorf, district attorney, assisted by Bradford and Bradford, will represent the county.

ANOTHER CHICAGO RUSE

The Chicago sanitary district has asked the supreme court of the United States to dismiss the suit brought against it by Great Lakes states to restrain it from withdrawing water from Lake Michigan, on the ground that although brought in the name of the states and navigation it was really in the interest of hydro-electric power. This is another move characteristic of Chicago politics and of the conspiracy to rob the lakes states of their proprietary rights in lake water. It is adding insult to injury to make such charges, for instance, against Wisconsin which has no lake power development to serve even if it were inclined to do so. Moreover the suit originated in Wisconsin, whose sole interest is the protection and conservation of lake navigation. Nor can there be any doubt that Minnesota, Michigan, Ohio, Indiana and New York joined in the suit with precisely the same motives, and no other. To be sure there is in some of these states power development, conspicuously in New York, but the Chicago sanitary district knows that their governments are not so lost to honor that they would engage in costly litigation for the benefit of hydro-electric power owners.

The real fact is that the sanitary district of Chicago itself wishes to divert water from Lake Michigan for power purposes. Its theft of water is valuable for two purposes only, first, to save Chicago the expense of constructing a mechanical sewage reduction plant at great public expense, and, second, for the generation of power, which it is said already nets a profit of more than a million dollars annually. Abstraction of lake water is of no value for navigation because there is no traffic and will be none of consequence even when the so-called lakes-to-the-gulf waterway is completed. Navigation will be altogether a minor consideration. The theft is mercenary and for no worthy public use or purpose.

We take it the supreme court will see through this further ruse of Chicago to evade final judgment on the crime it has perpetrated against the lake states. It wants to take the case out of the supreme court. It goes so far as to allege that it is not a proper subject for court action but belongs exclusively to congress. In congress it knows that political trading, scheming and subterfuge can accomplish anything. If the political ropes are successfully manipulated, the lake states can be robbed blind. We can conceive of no question arising between cities or states, involving their sovereign political or economic rights, of greater importance than that which turns upon the point whether the Great Lakes may be despoiled by mercenary interests, or for the benefit of a watershed and navigation in other sections of the country. In fact it is a question of such magnitude that doubt is expressed by some of our ablest constitutional lawyers as to whether even congress has the power to authorize diversion of water from the Great Lakes that would be injurious to navigation or that would infringe upon the [illegible] rights of the bordering states.

NOTICE TO THE SOVIETS

Ambassador Myron T. Herrick [illegible] United States in a Memorial [illegible] at the American military cemetery [illegible] Suresnes attacked the soviet [illegible] in Russia and served [illegible] United States will [illegible] soviet propaganda. The [illegible] remarks came as a complete [illegible] those attending the service [illegible] were many high French officials [illegible] Nevertheless his address is regarded today by the press of Europe as an important political pronouncement.

It is not conceivable that it was made without the knowledge of Washington. "We intend to protect our country from Bolshevism as our ancestors defended it against tyranny, and the fact that a government is secretly dispatching armies does not make the invasion less felonious or alter our duty to repel it." These are strong words and prove conclusively that the American government is alive to the sinister menace of the soviets and intends to stamp out forthwith any attempt of the Bolshevists to spread their propaganda in America.

England had a sad experience with the Russians, who distributed Bolshevist propaganda from the Arcos Trading agency headquarters in London, and sent the soviets home bag and baggage. The United States would have none of the Russians diplomatic entanglements and today stands vindicated because of the soviets activities in the British Isles. Our diplomats and statesmen held firm against the clamor of a few radicals and pacifists and developments in England have proven their wisdom.

This country will not recognize Russia until it has established a representative and responsible government. Furthermore, it will not stand idly by and have its institutions attacked and undermined by the soviets and Ambassador Herrick's address is notice to that effect. No nation can tolerate within its own borders the activities of another nation seeking to overturn its governmental and social order. And the Russians have attempted to do just that in England and elsewhere.

FLOOD CONTROL AND POLITICS

Enthusiasts who want immediate action for flood control in the Mississippi valley should keep their shirts on. Most of the talk directed against the government and in criticism of the president for failure to convene congress in special session is politics. The president is well informed of the situation and of its requirements. He had Mr. Hoover on the scene immediately when the crisis arose. He has been in intimate touch with conditions in the South ever since. Army engineers and the war department are giving the problem intensive study. The government knows what can be done and what cannot be done and it knows whether special congressional action is essential to an adequate and early remedy.

All of the president's adversaries want a special session of congress. There are plenty of matters to be brought up that are embarrassing, or can be made embarrassing to the administration, and it would be a strategic stroke to force them to the front on the eve of the presidential campaign. These matters include the senatorial primary scandals and the seating of Vare and Smith; also, farm relief legislation and foreign policy, both of which could be made the subject of interminable debate and political attack.

We have no doubt Mr. Coolidge would assemble congress if he believed it were necessary or if it would hasten permanent flood control. There is a large amount of preliminary survey and investigation that must be made by competent engineers and by congressional committees before congress can even discuss legislation, much less enact it. Congressional committees are at liberty to make their investigations now, and the army engineers, together with such consulting engineers as the states or government may wish to employ can go ahead with their surveys, study and recommendations. Obviously nothing is to be gained by a special session of congress. On the contrary, the country will be better off without it, for we could expect nothing from it but political wrangling and a hopeless legislative jam.

HITTING THEM WHEN THEY'RE DOWN

The more I study ways of health and means of imparting knowledge of hygiene, the more am I convinced that we must not only catch them early but hit 'em when they are down, if we mean tot get people into the periodic health examination habit.

We doctors are pretty good examples of the sort of indifference that must be overcome. Even while we are urging on the general public the wisdom of a periodic health examination we seldom consider undergoing such an examination ourselves. That is we do not bother to do so until some impairment of health becomes so manifest that we get a little anxious or scared. So unpopular is the idea of a periodic health examination with the great body of the medical profession that it became news when a group of doctors in Brooklyn actually had themselves examined whether they neded it or not. That group is still unique. A doctor is generally the last person to do as the doctor says.

We must go at this thing from another angle. As long as people or doctors think they are fairly well they are simply not going to bother with a periodic health examination, much less pay for it. I put it to you, doctor or layman, if you are perfectly well isn't it foolish, downright morbid and extravagant, for you to go through any such examination? I think so. I'd hate like sin to squander an hour or two of my time and worse still pay $10 or $20 for any such monkeyshines, I am sure. But let me get a little pain, physical or mental, or a little scare of any kind about my health, and then, I fancy, you could persuade me readily enough to blow a 10 spot for some expert assurance. I believe I am not different from the general run of folks about this.

So, lads, hear my plea, if you are in earnest about this health inventory business. We must get after them in a different way. We must get them a little anxious, a little worried, a little doubtful about their health. That'll bring 'em around for the once over. That is the system the patent medicine people, the freak healing cults, the quacks, and the proprietary food manufacturers have found most effective. That is the system the manufacturers of soap, harness, household goods, clothing, and about everything else one can think of, have used with the happiest results. That is, in short, good American business practice. Let's adopt it for the propogation of the periodic health test idea.

For instance, here's a solid, scientific health fact, and it can do nobody any harm to know it. An adult can hold his breath only 30 or 20 seconds, he seconds without preparation, and perhaps 60 or 80 seconds if he prepares for it in advance. But if he finds he can't last the 40 seconds without taking a breath, he certainly needs medical advise. If an adult can hold is breath only 30 or 20 seconds, he is not necessarily a seriously sick man, but he does unquestionably needs medical attention. He may not require any treatment, but he should by all means find out why his margin of oxygenation is so low. It is just as significant as an unexplained loss of weight or an insidiously increasing puffiness or breathlessness on moderate exertion is. Anyone who can't hold his breath 40 seconds should take immediate steps to find out why.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Place to Drink Milk

I am seriously contemplating the milk cure for rest and gaining weightt. Will you recommend a sanitarium not too far from ——? (Mrs. S.)

Answer.—Why go to a sanitarium to drink milk? Have you ever gone out in the country and reached the farm about milking time? That's the place to drink milk—when it is absolutely fresh. Gosh, now you've gone and spoiled a big day's work I intended to do. Now I wonder if any of these darn poets ever sung about the smell of the new mown milk when the cows come home from pasture and you hear the delightful music of the stream hitting the pail? That's one time when I fairly envy the cat.

To Brace or Not to Brace

I have a daughter 20 months old who is quite bow legged. I have kept ankle brace shoes on her since she started to walk at the age of 12 months but they don't seem tot have helped much. . . . (Mrs. T. F. L.)

Answer.—Never use any brace or other splint or supporter except under medical care. Let your doctor advise about the child's development.

SPEAKING MOVIES AND THE THEORY OF FICTION

The "speaking movies" have recently been given tryouts in various places and the tests seem to show that they are mechanically practically perfect, with perfect co-ordination between action on the screen and the voices in the machine. While the character in the picture says, "I love you, Hortense," the mechanism grinds out the words, and the kiss in the final clinch resounds through the movie palace.

However, perfect "speaking movies" may be mechanically, I doubt if they will revolutionize motion pictures, as some enthusiasts for the new invention claim for it. Something more than mechanical perfection is needed in any art. There may be a place for "speaking movies" in some kinds of pictures but I doubt the device can be adapted to the movie as an art form.

Isn't it likely that those who dream of talking movies have a mistaken idea of what movies are, what they are meant to do? Similarly those who think that the novel or short story must be a reproduction of life have a wrong conception of the function of those art forms. A novel that should actually reproduce life would be too dull for words. Nine tenths of what people say in their actual humdrum living is meaningless for the purpose of art. The novelist or the short story writer does not reproduce life, he produces the illusion of life. He selects his details, his dialog, his incidents. If he can manage to induce the reader to feel that while reading the book he is actually living through the experience of the characters he has fulfilled his task. A novelist who should actually reproduce life would need a thousand volumes for a single life story.

In the movies the words of the characters are for the most part wholly irrelevant. Whatever words are actually needed to make the story intelligible can easily be thrown on the screen and the fact that we get them through the eyes instead of through the ears makes no difference.

The movie is entirely different from the spoken play, a different art. It is claimed by some that the reason so many plays fail when they are turned into movies is simply because it is assumed by their makers they are both plays and the movie story is told in terms of the play story. In the play dialog is important, the human voice is vital. Some of the most successful plays have been told almost completely in dialog, with almost no action. The action is suggested in the dialog, our hair is raised by the inflection of a voice, by the evocation of horror in a tone.

The fundamental idea of the movie is action. Everything is translated into action. An idea that cannot be screened, that cannot be photographed, is valueless for the movies. The scenario author does not reproduce life any more than the novelist or the short story writer does. He produces the illusion of life and that is all that is necessary. He makes the figures on the screen make us in the audience tell ourselves the story, set our imaginations working. He selects such incidents as will give the greatest illusion of reality. A lot of dialog, no matter how skilfully "co-ordinated" from a phonograph behind the curtain would seriously interfere with the story. Imagine two characters on the screen flickering through 500 feet of film doing nothing but talking—as is very often the case in a speaking play. It would be intolerable.

The movies can tell stories in action that the speaking stage cannot touch. Take the sea fight in "Ben-Hur." On the speaking stage such a scene is either intolerably mechanical, or, if the producer is wise, it is told in dialog. In the movies it can actually happen before your eyes. The action produces the illusion, and it is illusion we are after, not a reproduction of actuality. It is illusion we are after in all art, never reproduction of actuality.

That is the real reason why "talking movies" will probably never become the rule. Not only are they not needed, but they would interfere with the illusion; they would be an intrusion. All the auditory accompaniment that is needed is what the orchestra furnishes when it evokes an atmosphere in music.

AVOID SPEED TRAP

Editor Post-Crescent: Now that the new cement stretch of road south of Cherry-st bridge has become the Motor Cop's Paradise, it seems as if the only fair and decent thing to do would be to erect some sort of a marker indicating where the city limits begin. Then visitors and tourists would at least know when they are in the city and when they are not.

I notice that almost every other village, town and city in the surrounding territory have managed to erect signs such as: "City Limits. We enforce the Speed Laws."

I believe that Appleton should fall in line before her reputation as a city housing a speed trap becomes firmly established. If there is any reason why this can not be done, I, for one, should be very interested in knowing why.

The Question Box

By Frederic J. Haskin.

Q. What is meant by two-cycle and four-cycle in describing engines? Are there any one-cycle? F. E. A.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that the terms two-cycle and four-cycle are abbreviations for two-stroke cycle and four-stroke cycle. In a two-cycle engine each cylinder has a power stroke and an exhaust stroke for every revolution of the crankshaft. In a four-cycle engine each cylinder has one power stroke and three others (suction, compression, and exhaust) which require two revolutions of the crankshaft. No internal combustion engine has less than a two-stroke cycle. All engines operate on some one cycle such as the Otto cycle, the Diesel cycle, etc., but no engine has a cycle consisting of a single stroke.

Q. Are there fewer people on the farms now than there were in 1920? R. C.

A. Not including th inhabitants of the Mississippi Valley who have been forced from their farms temporarily, the farm population of the country has been reduced about 3,000,000 since 1920.

Q. How many of the prisoners who are released on parole make good citizens? M. L. B.

A. According to the latest statistics 94 per cent of all paroled men from prison make good.

Q. How large is the new Roxy Theatre in New York City? F. E. O'C.

A. It covers an area of 52,250 square feet and is 115 feet high. It has a seating capacity of over 6000 seats and is the largest theatre in the world. Backstage is a six story building containing dressing rooms, club-rooms, tailor shops, and in fact every convenience.

Q. Where and when did the family of Francis Scott Key live near the Aqueduct Bridge in Georgetown, D. C.? J. R. K.

A. They lived on M Street near the Aqueduct Bridge from 1803 until 1828.

Q. Where were the Los Angles and Shenandoah built? W. S. E.

A. The airship Los Angeles was constructed by the Zepplin Airship Company at Friedrichshafen, Germany. The Shenandoah was constructed at the Naval Aircraft Factory, Philadelphia, Pa.

Q. What is called the Queen of Sciences? A. O. N.

A. Both philosophy and mathematics have been so termed by various writers.

Q. Why were Scotch so influential in English history I. V. G.

A. Because the Scotch people were organized into clans led by notable men, the landed gentry of Scotland wielded a political influence which made the members, as a class, of greater importance than the corresponding class in England. There are few classes of people so proud of their history as the Scotch landed gentry.

See-Sawing On Broadway
By Gilbert Swan

New York,—Two cowboys standing at Forty-Third and Broadway waiting for a booking with a wild-west carnival outfit. . . One leans against the lamp-post and reads an afternoon newspaper . . He reads of gang killings in Chicago and hold-up stootings on the East Side . . . "Certn'y are wild country aroun' here," he observes . . . The other squirts a quir of tobacco at the pavement and instinctively feels the empty holster at his belt . . . "Ya know Chuck we ain't had a shooting around the Wind River country in a hulluva while . . . mus' be six, eigh' months ur-so" . . "Ya, it makes a fellow feel like a d— tenderfoot around this range."

Not more than a couple of blocks away a movie theater blazons its notice of a "wild west" picture . . . A cop whistles shrilly to the congested traffic . . . The cowboys tilt their ten gallon hats and look uncomfortably out on the Broadway "range," where taxicabs seemed to have eaten of loco weed and stampeded . . . "Shore's a stampede on," one drawls as they withdraw to safety in a doorway.

You hear a lot of wild tales about the gay life of Broadway chorines.

All right, listen in on this one about two typical chorus girls. They both dance in the same chorus and pal around together.

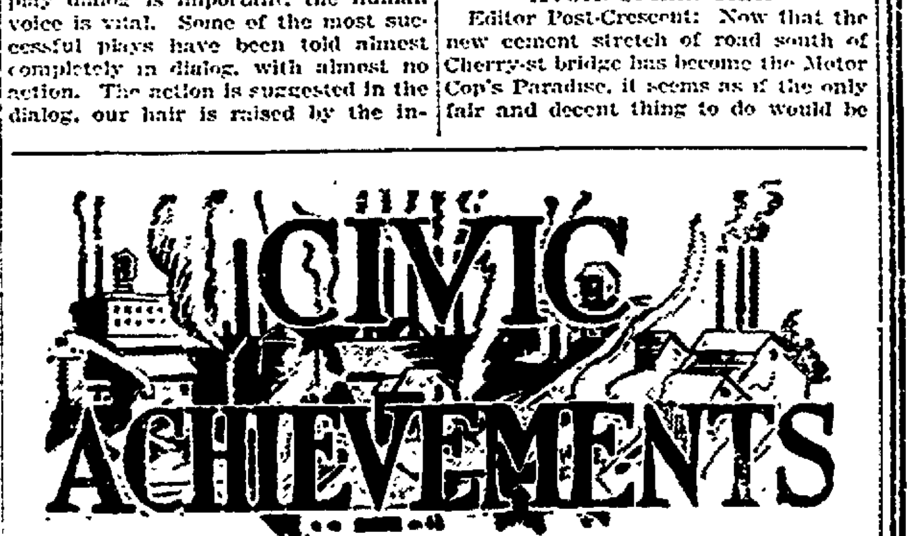

One came from a dinky town stuck in the Jersey hills. Her father earned barely enough to support the family so, when the girl was old enough, she came to New York to make her way. The father earns even less now and there are a mother and several youngsters to be supported. She sends home about $20 a week and that keeps the family going. She makes $50.

The other comes from that belt in the West Fifties where New York slides into the river. For years her father ran a little lunch wagon and made just about enough to keep the family in clothes. She learned to dance on the sidewalks with the other kids of a poor neighborhood. She was a pretty youngster and the producer gave her a chance. She also makes $50 a week and practically supports her family.

The only "silks and furs" these chorines have ever had came from the theater wardrobe. Neither has been able to afford a new dress in a year and, though they are often invited to "step out" after the show they've never had the sort of clothes needed for an after-theater supper place. They go to a ham-and lunch counter or a Chinese restaurant when the curtain falls.

There are many more like them on Broadway.

The South American and Cuban resorts are furnishing Manhattan with a large quota of elevator boys and bell boys. While working, these lads go to school, learn the language, and at the same time pick up pointers on American hotel methods. Returning to their homes they become invaluable in the handling of American tourists. I know three who have made comfortable fortunes which, of course, encourages others to try.

NO. 17—BANISH GRADE CROSSINGS

By Don E. Bowty
Secretary, the American Community Advertising Associations

Every city has its bad crossings, too many of which are marked by tell-tale crosses which give count to tragic crossing accidents. Elimination grade crossings is therefore one of the most important problems confronting any community.

Few cities, however, have set about to wipe out grade crossings and crossing accidents as has Dayton, O.

Dayton had forty bad crossings. Thirty-five of them are to be eliminated at once. Five will disappear within ten years. The total cost will be $23,000,000—no small sum.

To finance this project, Dayton floated a bond issue. The campaign slogan was "Now or Never." The answer was now. The railroads agreed to stand 65 per cent of the total cost, or $15,000,000. The city's share is $8,000,000.

Three-fourths of the total will be spent in Dayton for labor and materials during six years of construction work. This adds to the city's prosperity.

[illegible] the biggest item of saving is this:

The thirty-five separated grade crossings will save the people of Dayton $5,650,000 which is now lost every year in traffic delays.

THIS HAS HAPPENED

T. Q. CURTIS, millionaire owner of the Curtis department store, selects three girls from his establishment to come into his home as his wards for one year, because he wants to help them further certain worthy ambitions. Billy Wells, who wants to become a concert violinist, is the only one of the three that is genuinely ambitious. NYDA LOMAX and WINNIE SHELTON lie to enjoy the old man's generosity.

When, unknown to him the girls learn that T. Q. intends to adopt one of them when the year is up, Winnie and Nyda turn the house into a place of intrigue and draw Billy into the contest against her will. Billy is infatuated with DAL ROMAINE, nephew of MRS. MEADOWS, the hostess. She fears he is "playing" both her and Winnie Shelton and when the two leave town over the same week-end, her suspicions are heightened.

In spite of this infactuation, Billy tenderly remembers CLAY CURTIS, son of her benefactor, who has disinherited himself and is boarding with Mrs. Wells in a por part of town, working in a factory by day and writing music at night. Billy loses interest in her violin and finally has a breakdown. She and CONSTANCE BRADLEY, a charming, wealthy girl, decide to go to a lake resort for a month.

The night before they leave Billy secretly meets Romaine in the summerhouse at midnight. He suavely puts her doubts at rest. Returning to the house, Billy sees EDDIE BANNING, Nyda's chauffeur-sweetheart of department store days, stealing from Nyda's window and leaving by the fire-escape. When Billy rushes to Nyda's room to see if any harm has befallen the girl, Nyda is furious at her and tells her she is lying when she says a man was in her room. Billy goes to her own room and stumbles over Mrs. Meadows, who is peeping through the keyhole of Nyda's door. During the month that Billy and Constance spend at the resort, Billy hopes she has banished Romaine from her heart.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLI

Billy and Constance returned to Colfax on a train arriving at five o'clock and the two girls parted affectionately at the station, Constance driving away in the Bradley sedan with her mother, and T. Q. taking charge of Billy and her luggage in the Curtis limousine.

"Good girl!" It was hard to recognize the brusque old millionaire in the fatherly, beaming man who gathered the sun-burned, sturdy little girl's hands in his when the car was picking its sedate way through the downtown section. "You're looking great, child. Feel up to a little party tonight?"

"I never felt better in my life," she laughed, laying one of his hands against her cheek. "And I've led such a quiet life that I'm spoiling for a good party. What's the program?"

"Dinner for twelve at the house, then the young people want to whisk away to the Country Club. The big Saturday night dance, you know. But you mustn't overdo, Billikin."

Mrs. Meadows seemed delighted to have her back again, and even Nyda and Winnie were faintly friendly, when they came to her room before dinner.

"I haven't a thing to wear," Billy mourned, looking at the sleek newness of their dresses with envious eyes.

"That dress what came from that Madame Duboys, or whatever you calls her, would be nice for tonight," Viola, the colored maid, contributed eagerly. "My, Miss Billy, that dress is a dream—a dream, what I mean." She abandoned her work of unpacking Billy's wardrobe trunk and hurried to the clothes closet. "Now, Miss Nyda, and Miss Winnie, I asks you—ain't that dress a dream?"

Billy's profound amazement passed unnoticed, for Nyda and Winnie were wholly engrossed with the dress which Viola had so proudly displayed. She had ordered no dress from Madame Dubois.

"It's stunning, Billy," Winnie cried her voice a little shrill with envy. "But you'd better try it on. It may have to be altered."

Billy took the dress into her own hands almost reverently. It was a beauty—and those particular shades of yellow and green had always filled her with covetous delight.

"Got a label on the neck?" Viola crowed. "It say, 'Madame Dubois, Exclusive Models—The Daffodil.' That's what you are now, Miss Billy, a daffodil. An' that name ain't no lie, neither, is it, Miss Winnie?"

It's lovely," Winnie conceded. "I don't know why she didn't show it to me. Goodness knows I've spent more at her old shop than you have, and she knew I was looking for a dress just on that order."

When Nyda and Winnie had gone to their rooms to add last-minute touches of make-up, Viola drew a tiny envelope from her apron pocket and handed it over, with a rich chuckle.

"This-here note was pinned on the dress when it come, Miss Billy."

Inside the small envelope was a card, covered with the minute printing which was Dal Romaine's entirely distinctive handwriting:

"This is your dress, Mignon. It was created especially for you. And it's from me to you, with love. Dal."

The "spell" rushed back upon her, recaptured her, shook every nerve in her exquisitely clad little body. She understood. This was his answer to her charge, her bitter, unjust charge, only half uttered but understood by him, that he had "lured" her into Madame Dubois' shop and caused her to spend more money than she could afford, so that he might profit at her expense. Viola was not looking, and Billy laid the card against her lips, in a passion of reawakened love.

She was bitterly disappointed that Dal Romaine was not among the dinner guests whom T. Q. had invited to do her honor on her home-coming. But she laughed and talked gaily of her experiences at the big resort hotel. Constance, who had known for days of the prospective dinner party, was among the guests, and before her Billy could not bear to be less than gay and charming. For she knew that Constance had guessed the secret of her infatuation for Dal Romaine.

The party included Ralph Truman, Bruce Kruger, Gil Warburton, son of Presley Warburton; Carl Boswell, in whom Nyda seemed to be interested, and Peter Conroy, who, like Carl, did not "quite belong" to the Kruger-Bradley-Truman set, but who had been invited because Winnie so evidently liked him; and, besides the three girls of the house, Constance Bradley and Kathleen Kruger, a vivacious little red-headed flapper, who had recently announced her engagement to Gil Warburton. At ten o'clock the young people piled into cars which hurried them away to the Country Club.

Billy was dancing with Ralph Truman, who had treated her all evening as if nothing unpleasant had ever occurred to mar their friendship, when she was startled by an explosive "Damn!" from the lips which had just been smiling at her with comradely affection.

"What's the matter?" she demanded, as his arm tightened about her.

Then she looked toward the door of the club ballroom and saw the cause of his annoyance. Dal Romaine stood there, a slight smile on his thin, perfectly cut lips, his teeth gleaming as white as his polished shirt front, his Tuxedo fitting his trim figure with exquisite precision.

Ralph swung Billy to the opposite end of the room, dancing there in a small area for several minutes, while he talked of a dozen inconsequential things. When the music stopped, Billy excused herself to Ralph and hurried away, as if bent on some important mission, but she had only one need—to see Dal and to speak with him alone. She was so shaken with emotion that she wondered how she could walk so steadily, and she felt that her eyes were burning with such a light that anyone glancing at her would be blinded by it.

The music started again while she was still hunting for him. Bruce Kruger swept her into a dance, but she scarcely knew whose arms were around her. She was glad of their support, however, when she came abruptly upon Dal Romaine, dancing with Nyda Lomax. Nyda, who was as tall as Dal, in her three-inch heels, was dancing far closer than good taste permitted, her face almost touching the man's dark cheek.

"Let's dance over to the balcony, Bruce," Billy pleaded.

"Feeling faint, old dear?" Bruce asked solicitously, when they reached the open window by the balcony. "Wait here, Billy. I'll get you a glass of iced punch. Don't revive and whirl away with some other chap while I'm gone."

"I'll wait for you on the balcony," she told him, stepping through the open French window as she did so.

She was feeling faint, she realized with surprise and self-pity, as she stretched out in a big wicker chair drawn up to the balcony. The cool spring breeze, laden with the sweet, fresh scent of new-cut grass on the billowing golf course that lay below the club building, revived her.

How foolish she was to be nauseated with jealousy, just because Dal Romaine danced with Nyda Lomax! What if he did look at Nyda as if he adored her? Dal could not help paying whimsical, knightly deference to women. He had teased her often about her jealousy, though she had never stooped to the ignominy of putting that jealousy into words. Of course she flirted!

As she reasoned with herself, her eyes brooded upon the moonlit scene below her. A couple, walking arm in arm, crossed the field of her vision. With a tightening of her whole body, she realized that it was Dal and Nyda, their heads bent so close that Dal's breath must be playing upon Nyda's cheek. Before she could realize the pain that the sight caused her, a man leaped from the shadows of a high box hedge, and hurled himself upon Romaine. She had time to note that the attacker wore the semi-military coat and glistening Cordovan puttees of a chauffeur before her recognition of him was confirmed by Nyda's shrill scream:

"Eddie! Eddie, for God's sake—"

Billy's instinct was to throw herself over the balustrade of the balcony, regardless of possible injury to herself, and rush to the defense of the man she loved. But, her defense was not needed. Before she could move or cry out, Romaine, as if by magic, since he was at least thirty pounds lighter than the attacker, had thrown his attacked over his shoulder.

"Jiu jitsu, by golly!" Bruce Kruger's voice behind her exclaimed with sincere admiration. "Wonder where he learned that?"

Billy did not answer. Her eyes were straining toward the group below. Dal stood over the fallen man, spoke to him, apparently, with quietness, and without gestures. Banning flung a threatening arm about, but as Romaine talked, he grew quieter. Then Nyda stooped beside him, helped him to his feet. The chauffeur limped on down the driveway, after a minute or two of feeble threatening, the words of which Billy could not hear, and Nyda and Dal returned to the club house.

A few minutes later Dal, with a smile of unruffled poise, "cut in" on Bruce Kruger, who was dancing with Billy. She was still pale with fright, but the conventional contact of his arms in the dance made her crazily happy.

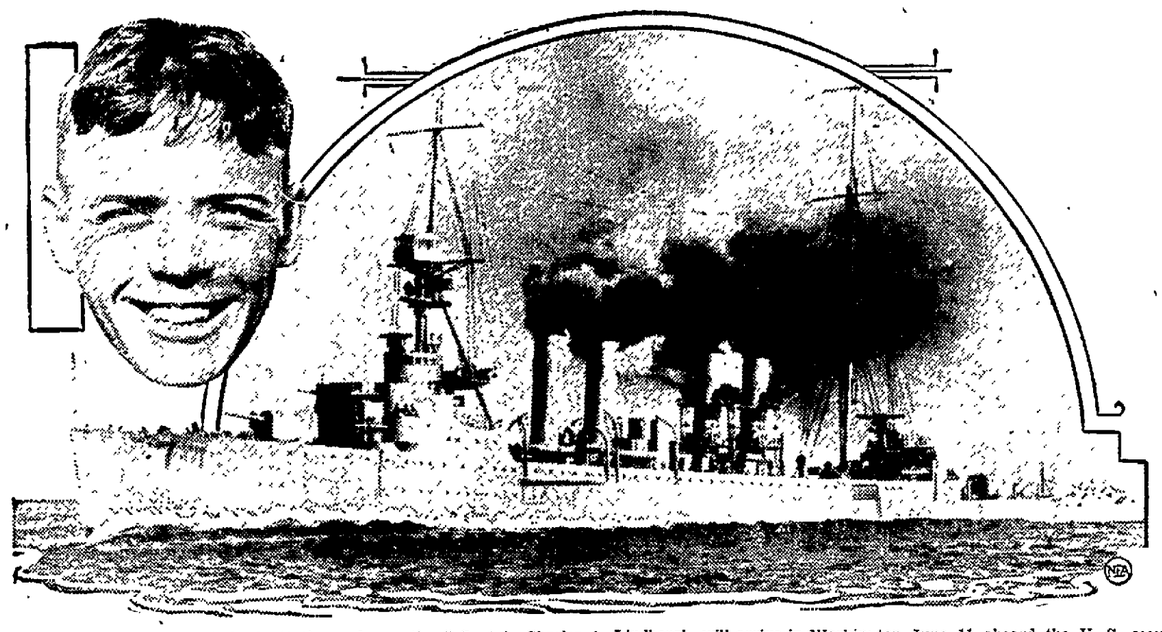

"I saw what happened—from the balcony," she whispered, as soon as they had swung away from Bruce. "Why did he do it, Dal?"

"Forget all about it, Mignon, my darling," his voice caressed her, but his eyes commanded her. "Banning put himself in my power tonight—and someone else, too," he added so softly that she hardly caught the strange, frightening words. But his lips closed in a thin, cruel line, and his narrowed eyes glinted in a way that made her shiver.

(To Be Continued)

Romaine apparently knows something about Nyda that he won't tell, and Billy's efforts to get it out of him are in vain.

SIX TRUANCY CASES DISCOVERED IN MAY

Almost twice as many boys as girls were reported for non-attendance at school in May in the monthly report of the city truant officer, J. G. Pfeil. Fifty-two boys and 27 girls were investigated by the officer.

Truancy was the cause of absence in only six cases, whereas parental negligence was reported in 24 cases.

ANNOUNCING
The Senior Line

A REMARKABLE NEW SIX by DODGE BROTHERS

A new line of Sixes by Dodge Brothers is presented to the public today.

It has been rumored, and hoped, for years that Dodge Brothers would ultimately produce such a line—more refined and, of course, higher in cost than their present car.

To combine the sturdy worth of Dodge Brothers standard product with those refinements which greater cost permits, could not fail, it was conceded, to produce a motor car of unique distinction and fineness.

The Senior Line is Dodge Brothers answer to this demand—and Dodge Brothers have answered well.

These are remarkable cars. Brilliantly vital and alive—surprisingly quiet—impressively smart. And built, like all Dodge Brothers motor cars, for years of dependable service.

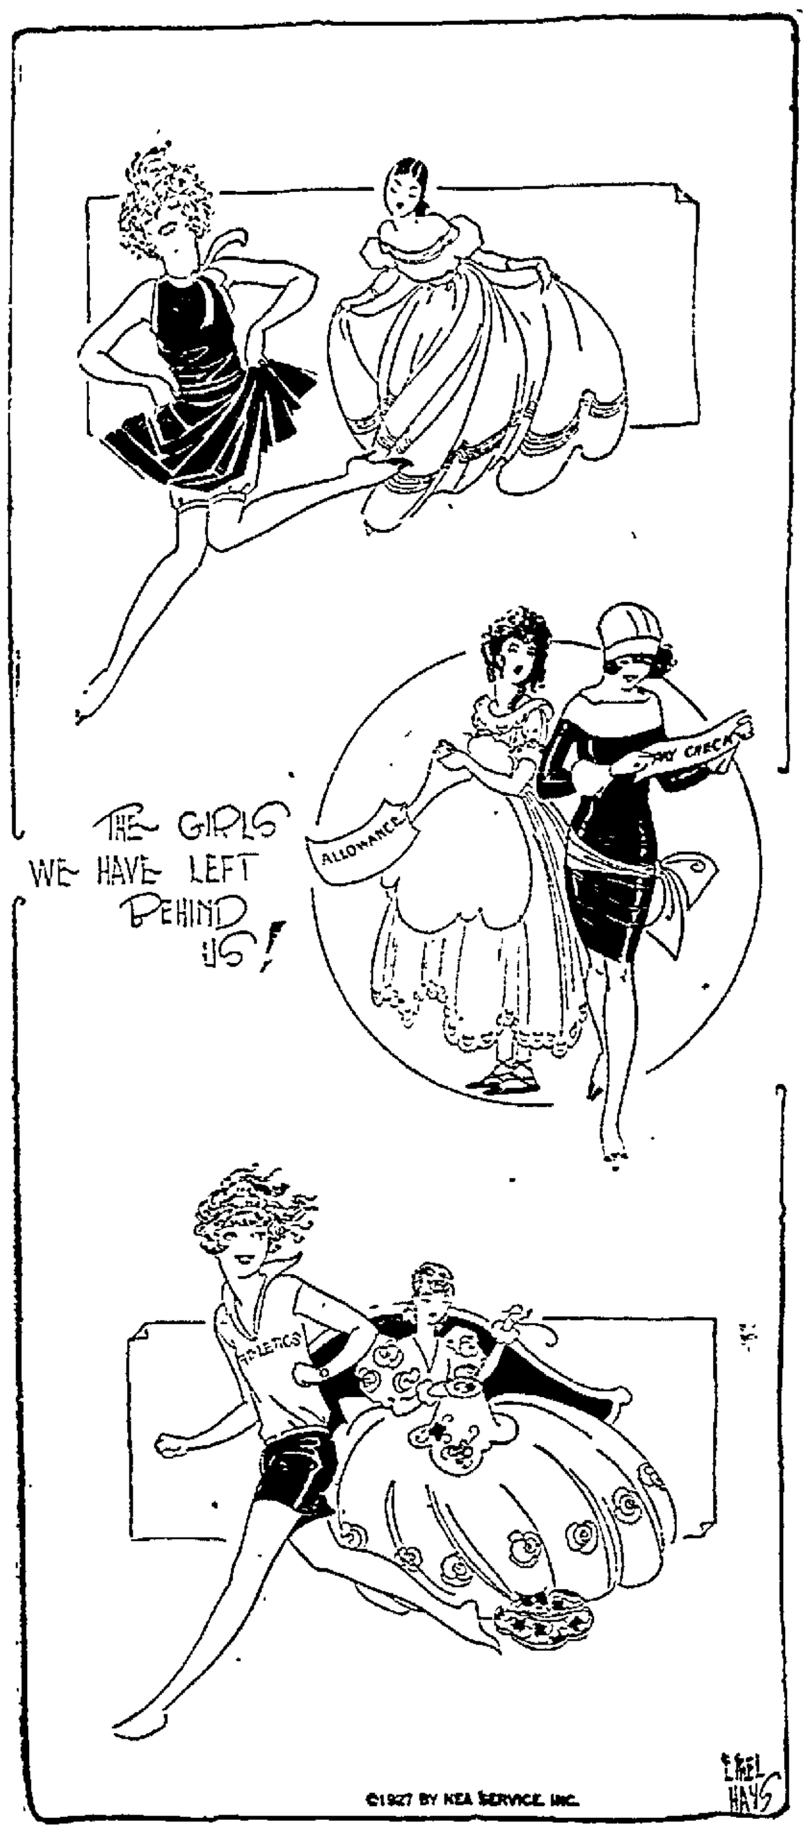

See one and drive it and you will marvel that performance of this quality and character could be provided at a price so low.

What We've Left Behind!

FLAG NEEDS PROTECTION

BY OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

When Betsy Ross flag maker, patiently stitched together the stars and stripes in a pattern selected by the Continental Congress, it was well that there was no convenient crystal into which she could gaze and thereby behold the ignominy to wh'ch the flag's billions of great grandchildren were doomed to descend.

She had no premonition of pop stands on gasoline trails swathed in red, white and blue glory. She could have had no vision of mudplastered' flivvers coming out flat for nationalism versus state rights by exploiting on three-cornered pennants the name of each state they have passed through.

She may have stiched less industriously had she foreseen on the counters of five and ten cent stores near-silk handkerchiefs with crossed flags in the corners.

Recently I visited the tomb of a great man. He lies in a sweet spot, his favorite place of all his broad acres. The cedars, and , sycamores, and holly trees—the lawns, the fields of growing grain, the broad river, were not always so peaceful, and the flag that floats calmly in the southern breeze was not always so clean and bright. It had been drenched with blood and burnt with bullets.

Its shadow falls across the stone sarcophagus of George Washington.

Our flag still needs protection, but in another way.

THE TINYMITES

By Hal Cochran

READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE

THE Tinies followed Old King Roar along the beach a block or more and then they reached a monstrous oak. Said he, "My shack's up there. We'll have to shinny up the tree. Come on now, Tinies, follow me. It really isn't hard to do, if you will all take care."

So, up they scrambled, one by one. It really was a heap of fun. It didn't take the mlong to reach the shack where they were bound. Then Scouty stopped and said, "I fear that all of us are not up here. I've looked around for Clowny and he's no where to be found."

King Roar then said, "I think you're wrong. Just listen to that snoring song. Then gaze upon that yonder limb. I think your friend's asleep." Said Coppy, "Goodness me, you're night. He surely will be safe there, right. He may as well sleep there all if his balance he can keep."

Then all the rest crawled in the shack which sort of made it creak and crack. But, even so, right soon the bunch in slumberland were gone. They all slept fine and rested well and quite agreed the place was swell. Next morning they were up and out as early as the dawn.

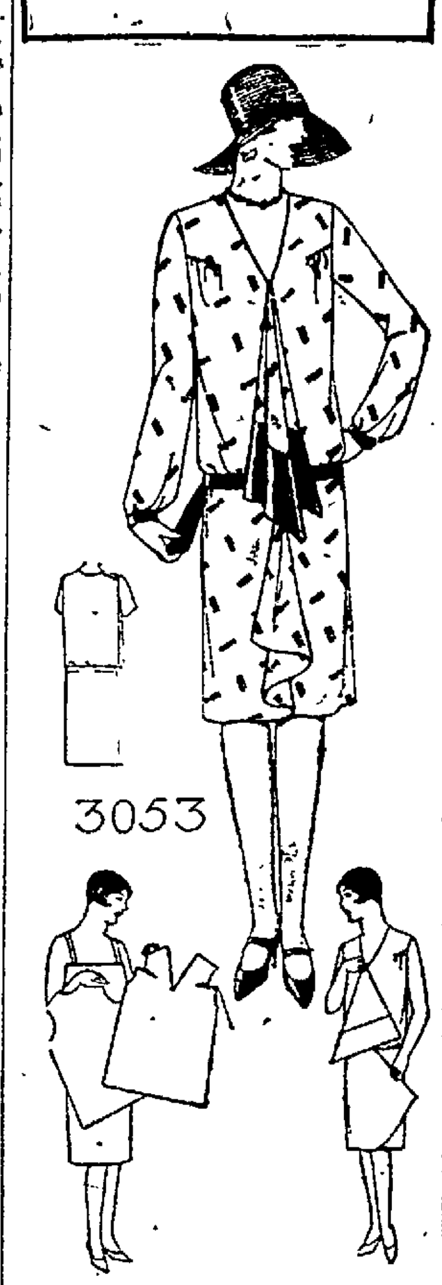

Right soon they heard the old king shout, "Come on, you Tinies. I'm about to spring a big surprise on you, of which I have all sorts. That shack up in the oak tree tall is really not my home at all. I only took you there to see if you were real good sports."

And then he led them down the beach, up to a place that was a peach. The Tinymites all greeted it with happy shouts and yells. "This is my real home," said the king. "You've never seen a finer thing. I built it all myself and it is all made out of shells."

(Scouty has a wild idea in the next story.)

RAINY DAYS ARE NOW OCCASION TO PARADE SMART UMBRELLAS

WEATHER has ceased to worry women. There was a time clouds meant frowns and when fair creatures in their best attire would risk getting wet, if there was room for conjecture, instead of carrying an umbrella.

Frilly parasols there were dripping lace and ribbon but rain umbrellas were certainly not things of beauty. Built for stern, wet practicality, they detracted from party costumes on days when the weather was inclement.

Nowadays, however, frilly parasols have disappeared entirely as well as the ugly rain protectors. In their places have come the sports umbrellas which serve equally well in run and rain. Their silk is treated to keep out heat and dampness.

SMART UNDER THE SUN

Color, of course, is the outstanding feature, for its influence has extended this season to all costumes, regardless of the occasion. Accessories must either match or form some striking contrast. The same holds true in the selection of sun and rain shades. A practical New York designer has worked out several types of shades, and with his feeling that the umbrellas should be of some practical use as well as being decidedly smart, he produces good looking parasols. He believes there should be special parasols for the different types of costumes and that the sports umbrella gaily striped in sunburst stripes should be carried at the beaches, when promenading or looking at the tennis games, horse races and especially when taking short walks on warm afternoons in summer.

The parasols are planned with an eye to the colors which are predominating this season. Each is worked out in details so that every segment between the 16 ribs forms some harmonizing line or a bit of dashing contrast.

RAIN CHECKS FOR SUMMER

All fabrics and summer designs are quoted in the various styles of umbrellas. This helps women to complete their ensembles. The stripes and checks are used as the basis for the design and in most of the parasols we see a combination of the design. It happens this year, in particular, colors are used to their fullest degree in most cases. Vivid reds, rich greens and clear blues with subtle gray are blended in a manner that will surely attract the eye and upon the darkest day will frighten gloom away.

Checks are interestingly interpreted and are made in two sizes, the very small pattern reminds one of the old fashioned shepherd check woolens or the neat little ginghams. Here, however, they are fashioned in rich, lustrous silk in two tones of the same color or colors that blend well. In the larger checks the same color scheme is used, but these are decidedly more striking and "sporty" looking.

Handles this year are different and have received more attention than ever before. The short length is still being used but parasols have a ribbon or leather strap upon them which is fastened at the bottom of the handle rather than the top or near to it. With this attachment the parasol reaches a graceful length when carried and at the same time fits into a suitcase conveniently when traveling. The more elaborate straight handles are covered with leather to match the silk, sometimes the loop is of another color.

MANNISH CROOKED HANDLES

Following the mode of mannish apparel for several seasons women were so busy that they did not think how incongruous it was for a perfectly mannish looking woman or an attractively boyish girl to go out in wet weather with a typically feminine umbrella. Now this detail has been attended to and the most interesting mannish, crooked handles appear on the stubby silk weather protectors.

"Melted stick candy or a colorful candle which has stooped to a hook in the heat" is our first impression of this new conceit. There are combinations of smoky gray with a dull red arranged in stripes and between each stripe a narrow band of sulphur yellow, upon the top of a beautiful red bordered umbrella. This particular type sells for $8 and $10. Several other combinations equally as lovely are made with the handle that rests upon the arm and which is so convenient when we go shopping.

FASHION HINTS

NEW COMBINATION

Georgette and foulard are combined this season to fashion "Francesca," a Worth afternoon gown. Both materials have the identical small figured pattern in blue and white.

SPORT HAT

A natural bangkok of medium sized, uneven brim, takes a practical grosgrain brown ribbon for banding and gets tremendous style from its loose bow with fringed ends.

FABRIC FRINGE

A smart black coat of soft wool has its revers and side tiers edged with a narrow fringe of the fabric.

NEW SHOE

A gray snakeskin shoe has a vamp and strip running around the shoe of black patent leather in just the fashion a toe-rubber would fit.

WHITE PIQUE

Hand-blocked linens in startling colors, silks and even georgettes can be no smarter than when they have a vestee or collar and cuffs of fine white pique.

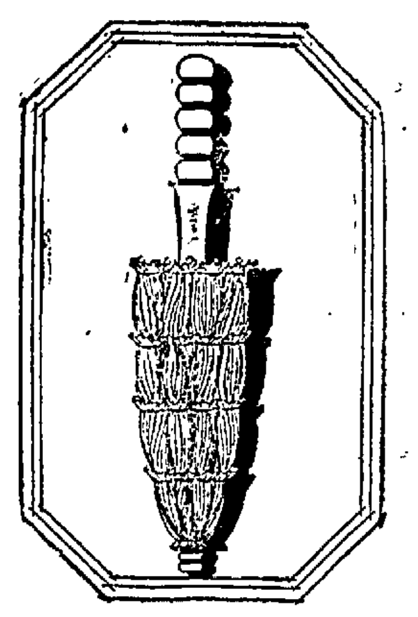

LACY CAPS

Little filmy capes of black or colored lace or embroidered chiffon, fashioned of the same material as the gown they complement, are very new.

Arlington, Ill., a town of 700 persons, has neither a barber shop nor a beauty parlor.

Fashion Plaques

SO FEMININE!

Black knife-pleated chiffon arranged in tiers over white is used to make a charmingly feminine sunshade with a stubby black and white spool handle.

The Agony of Rheumatism

"Money Back" Says Schlintz Bros. Co. If the First Bottle Allenrhu Fails to Do You More Good Than Anything You Ever Used.

"It does not matter whether you are disabled with cursed rheumatism or have only occasional twinges." Nine times out of ten Allenrhu will ease the agony, do away with the gnawing pains and help to reduce the swollen joints."

Allenrhu is no laggard; it starts right in at once; and by correcting faulty elimination, searches out the poisons and in two days starts to drive the concentrated impurities that may be the cause of rheumatism, out of the body through the natural channels.

Druggists everywhere guarantee it as above in every instance. adv.

SAINT AND SINNER

By Anne Austin

"Churchill would either laugh at us or haul Hutchinson into court on a subpoena in regard to that threatening letter, and Hutchinson would know good and well that Churchill couldn't actually pin the letter on him. And it would tip him off that he's under suspicion which would warrant Churchill's getting out a warrant for his arrest. No, let's wait and work this thing out ourselves, if possible. We've at least found Phil today and connected him with the writer of the therateninng letter," Faith advised Bob.

"All right, sounds sensible to me, but let's stop at a soda fountain and get a sandwich and a glass of milk and then beat it back to the courthouse. It's past one-thirty now, and we may have missed something important."

After they had snatched a quick lunch and were speeding toward the courthouse Bob suggested: "Don't you think I'd better ask Churchill if Hutchinson is one of the four men whom Crowell checked up on, when he was looking for convicts, who might have written that threatening letter?"

"Yes, I do. He may have a clear alibi for Hutchinson and we'd be wasting our time to pursue the thing further—but I don't believe it! We've got something big and we're going to follow it through to freedom for poor little Cherry! I never felt more sure of anything in my life."

When Faith and Bob entered the courtroom they found Adolph Bohn, a former employer of Cherry's on the witness stand. His examination by Churchill had evidently been in progress several minutes, for the facts of her employment with him had been disposed of.

"Now, Mr. Bohn, will you kindly tell the jury what your own feelings toward Miss Cherry Lane were?" Churchill asked almost coaxingly.

"I—I was very fond of her. Well, to be frank," and the handsome, dark young man of thirty-five flushed and lowered his keen black eyes for a moment. "I—er—asked her to marry me."

"Will you tell the jury when and under what circumstances this proposal of marriage was made, Mr. Bohn? I do not wish to cause your needless embarrassment but I believe the jury will hear the facts."

"Well, sir, I came in from lunch one day and found Miss Cherry in tears. I tried to comfort her, asked her to tell me what the trouble was. She said she was in love with a man whom her parents did not approve of, and that they had ordered him out of the house the night before."

"Will you give the name of the man referred to, Mr. Bohn?"

"She said his name was Chris Wiley,' Bohn answered.

"Go on, Mr. Bohn," Churchill directed. "Did she tell what her feelings for Mr. Wiley were?"

"She said—I think her exact words were that he had cast a spell on her, that she despised him for his philandering with women, but was infatuated with him in spite of herself. She confessed to me that she was afraid she would break her parents' hearts by eloping with him, and that she knew she would be unhappy with him, if she did. She was particularly agitated at the thought of how her mother would suffer if she married a man unworthy of her."

"And what was Miss Cherry's answer to your proposal?" Churchill asked, casting an affectionate glance at the defendant, whose pale little face had flushed rosily.

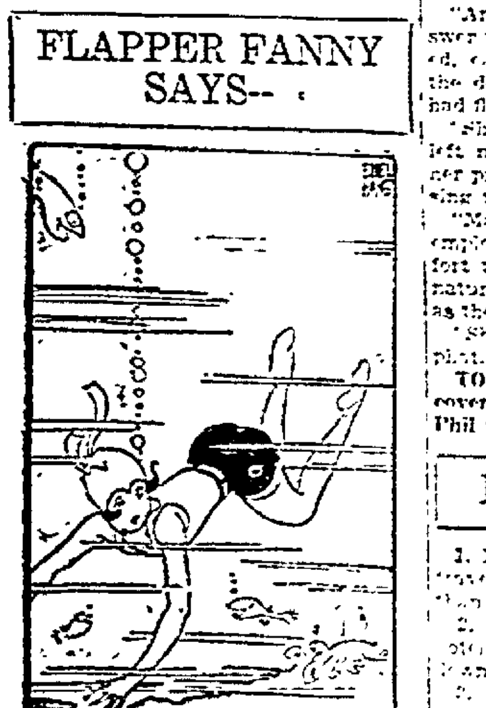

"She refused me, and voluntarily left my employ because, as she said, her presence there might be embarrassing to me," Bohn answered.

"May I ask, Mr. Bohn, if during her employment Miss Cherry made any effort to take advantage of your good nature of your generosity, to gold-dig, as the phrase goes?"

"She did not!" Bohn answered emphatically.

TOMORROW: Faith and Bob discover a new bit of evidence against Phil the beggar.

CHICAGO HEIRESSES CHOOSE CAREER RATHER THAN LEAD IN SOCIAL SET

BY DAN THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Calif.—Chicago society may lure many—but it holds no fascination for Evelyn Keefer and Elinor Patterson.

Either of these girls could be leaders in the Windy City's "four hundred." But they have chosen Hollywood and a career instead.

Miss Keefer's father "cleaned up" millions in real estate before he died a few months ago. His daughter was sent to the most select private schools and groomed for a life of social ease. Miss Patterson is the daughter of Chicago's foremost newspaper publisher. She was brought up in luxury and has never really tasted anything else.

Both girls, to whom salary checks large or small mean little, literally had long-term contracts thrust upon them. Evelyn Keefer, who is now known as Sue Carol, has been signed by Douglas MacLean as his leading lady. Elinor Patterson has a contract with Universal where she will be featured under her own name.

And how did it happen?

Sue Carol came to Hollywood to visit Janet Gaynor, a lifelong chum. As Janet was then working at the Fox studio, Sue often visited the lot to see how movies were made. She had not been here two weeks before she had attracted so much notice among Fox officials that they signed her to play an important role in one of their productions.

That was the first step. Although she had never been before a movie camera in her life, Sue made good. Douglas MacLean heard about her, saw her, made some screen tests and signed her to a five-year contract.

Elinor Patterson's [illegible] a [illegible]. Her principal am[illegible] for several years has been to be an actress. Her father tried his best to dissuade her, pointing out the hard knocks and disappointments that failure would bring. But she could not be swayed so she gave her letters to many of the country's leading stage producers.

Patterson's letters gained [illegible] entrance for Elinor wherever she went. But she got no jobs. [illegible] she obtained a small part in the James Gleason stock company, then playing in Milwaukee. Later she went to New York to spend a week and while there was selected by Morris Gest to play the Nun in "The Miracle."

Carl Laemmle saw Miss Patterson while she was in Los Angeles with "The Miracle" last winter. He was so struck by her vivid personality and beauty that he asked her to come to his office at University City. Elinor did so and was given a contract.

Fate in one instance and determination in the other have deprived Chicago of two pretty society leaders.

FIRE DESTROYS SHED AND MACHINERY AT CHARLES PARSON FARM

Son Home Alone Is Severely Burned When He Saves New Car from Flames

Special to Post-Crescent

Forest Junction—Fire destroyed a wagon and machine shed on the farm of Charles Parson located about one and a half miles northeast of the village on federal highway 10 Friday afternoon. A tractor, truck and other farm machinery were burned with the building. The cause of the fire was unknown, it was said.

George Parson, a son, was at home alone when the fire was discovered. He drove a new Oldsmobile coupe which had been partially damaged by the fire from the shed but this was all that was saved. He was severely burned about the hands and arms and was placed in the care of a physician immediately. Mr. Parson, Jr., had returned home a few days before from the hospital where he had an operation for appendicitis.

Both the Forest Junction and Brillion fire departments were called but the building was entirely in flames when they arrived. They succeeded in preventing the fire from spreading to the nearby house and barn.

Mr. Parson, Sr., probably will rebuild the shed as soon as arrangements can be made, it was said. The property destroyed was partially covered by insurance.

Thirty aliens will be admitted to citizenship at a naturalization hearing at the courthouse on Friday, June 10, it was announced this week.

A patriotic program probably will be prepared by the Oney Johnston post of the American Legion, according to H. H. Helble, principal of Appleton Senior high school and chairman of legion's special committee for such events.

Natives of Holland who will be made citizens of this country are Theodorus J. Dollevoet, Johanna Van den Boogaard, Petronella Van Den Boogaard, Adrian Verhoort, Peter Drall, Gertrude Drall, Catherine Verhoort, Jacobus Hermens, Leonardus Van der Heyden, Adriana Neyzers, Petronella Houterman, Henry Osinga, John Deurzen and Marie Van der Lee.

The names of the remaining applicants and their birth places follow: George Notaras and Lampros Pappakostas, Greece; Nick Arabian, Turkey; Rudolph Nowak, Czechoslovakia; Camiel Hilleger, Belgium; Louis Blacher, Russia; Marie Fjillerad, Denmark; Bridget Ziewacz, Poland; Alfred Rothlisberger, Switzerland.

Dodge Brothers "Six" Now On Display

Today marks one of the most important events in Dodge Brothers, history—the introduction of the first model of the company's new line of fine six cylinder motor cars. The car put on display today by the Wolter Motor Company, local Dodge Brothers Dealer, is a four-door sedan—an impressive looking vehicle which is said to possess a truly remarkable motor.

Within a few weeks two additional body types, a four-passenger coupe and a new type of cabriolet roadster, will be added to the new line of "sixes."

The new line of "sixes" has been named Dodge Brothers Senior Line to distinguish it from Dodge Brothers Standard Line of four cylinder cars with which the company has built up its world-wide reputation.

Crankshaft Heavier Than in Similar Motors

One of the most impressive features of the motor is the extremely heavy crankshaft and unusually large bearing area. The crankshaft is machined all over and weighs 69 pounds. Heavier than is used in any other engine of similar capacity, it is supported by seven extra large bearings. This fact, combined with exceeding rigidity, results in a smoothness of operation that is said to be excelled by no car, regardless of price.

The motor is of the L-head type, chosen by Dodge Brothers engineers because of the simplicity of the valve mechanism and relatively infrequent need of adjustment. The bore is 3¼ inches and the stroke 4½ inches, with 223.98 cubic inches displacement. Its taxable horsepower is 25.35, N. A. C. C. rating.

The crankshaft bearings and connecting rod bearings have greater areas than are found in other motors of this capacity.

The pistons are of an advanced type, designed to give rapid pickup, greater power, smooth performance, exceptionally low expansion and long life.

The exhaust valves are made of steel, alloyed with silicon and chromium, materials which give maximum durability and resist heat and wear.

Efficient Carburetion System

The carburetion system used is the latest type, designed to secure maximum efficiency in combustion and power. The fuel intake manifold is cleanly designed and has no sharp curves or bends to retard the flow of fuel from the carburetor to the combustion chamber. The center of the intake manifold is within a section of the exhaust manifold, giving an extra large "hot spot" section.

Single Plate Clutch Used

A single plate type of clutch is used. Its design is similar to that used on many of the highest priced cars such as Hispano Suiza, Pierce Arrow, Marmon, McFarlan, Locomobile, Peugot, Sunbeam, Daimler, Duesenberg and the British Rolls-Royce. It is exceptionally easy and quiet to operate.

Selective Sliding Gear Transmission

The transmission is of the selective sliding gear type and the shift is the standard system with three forward and one reverse speeds. The radial ball bearings and three roller bearings are used in the transmission to insure quiet, smooth operation and long service without attention.

The motor is lubricated by a high pressure, force-feed system which is simple, positive and dependable. It insures an ample supply of clean, filtered oil to every part at all times.

Four Wheel Hydraulic Brakes

All cars in the Senior Line are equipped with the most advanced design of Lockheed four-wheel, internal expanding, hydraulically operated brakes. The hydraulic system is automatically replenished and requires attention only at long intervals, possibly every seven or eight thousand miles.

The springs are of chrome vanadium steel and are semi-elliptic in type. The front spring length is 37 inches and the rear 55½ inches. The rear springs are underslung.

Dodge Brothers Dealers everywhere report an enormous advance interest in the new six and as a result it is expected that the local showrooms will be well crowded for some time to come. adv.

Now Senator Will Have Chance To 'Ride' Ballard

Madison—(AP)—About once a week the assembly must have some fun.

The opening of Friday's session provided this sport for the current week.

Attorney general John W. Reynolds had ruled that Clinton B. Ballard, superintendent of public property must furnish brief cases to state officials at their request, despite his economical move to cut out state purchases of the leather bags.

A resolution was introduced in the assembly to require Mr. Ballard to furnish each member of the legislature with a brief case.

Said Mr. Ingalls, Racine attorney: "Before we pass this, I would like to ask what we farmer members are going to do with our brief cases."

Said Mr. Prescott, Milwaukee: "Since coming down here, about all I've heard about the farmers is that they have a great number of mortgages. These brief cases could be used to carry them."

Mr. Ingalls suggested that the urban members might use the cases on their farms to gather eggs, or as carriers as they were planting or digging potatoes.

Assemblyman Peterson, Milwaukee, asked if "The Gentleman from Racine" planned to "abandon his brief case after carrying it for a while like he did the cane he obtained at the road show."

Retorted Mr. Ingalls: "I won't say about that, but there are others who may need canes before this session is over."

GOES TO SENATE

The resolution was adopted, sent to the senate, so that the members of the upper house may joke over it if they desire.

The assembly then settled to business and:

Decided not to override a governo's veto on a small appropriation bill, laid over another vetoed bill and received messages of approval of other assembly bills.

Ordered engrossed the bill to establish a state band through contests by the University of Wisconsin music department, naming the Beaver Dam Legion band temporary state musical unit and giving the band sufficient money to go to the Paris Legion convention.

Ordered engrossed the Seftenberg bill authorizing the governor to accept federal funds for Indian work hereafter available.

Killed the bill for submission to the voters of a proposal that the railroad commission be elected instead of appointed.

Passed the Marsch bill for annual appropriations to the University for experimental work on peat soils.

Passed the appropriation of $15,000 annually to the state conservation commission and the bill for $12,000 to that commission for the purchase of four new fish-transportation trucks.

Referred to the finance committee for a final hearing, the bill by Senator Titus abolishing the office of state oil inspector and turning the duties of the office over to the state treasurer.

Adjourned until next Monday night at 7:30.

STAGE And SCREEN

NEW BRENON PRODUCTION BOASTS REMARKABLE CAST

Herbert Brenon's latest Paramount production, "The Telephone Girl," comes to the Fischer's Appleton theatre Sunday with what is really a top-notch cast. Leading roles in this adaption of William C. De Mille's play "The Woman," are enacted by Madge Bellamy, Holbrook Blinn, Warner Baxter, May Allison and Lawrence Gray.

The story is one of political intrigue, of powerful secret factions, of crooked journalism, of an unearthed scandal—and hanging on the frail shoulders of one Kitty O'Brien, telephone girl. It seems that years ago, Matthew Standish had spent an indiscreet vacation in Atlantic City. Now, on the verge of winning the gubernatorial election, rivals have dug it up, hoping to smash his aspirations. Only one thing is missing—the woman's name. With that, victory will revert to the present incumbent, Governor Mark Robinson.

If Standish should come out on top, Robinson's father-in-law, the political boss, Jim Blake, will be unable to steer clear of the rocks. So, Blake gets busy. He determines to frighten Standish by stating that the story will be in every paper on the morrow. Sensing the man's reactions in advance, Blake asks Kitty O'Brien, the hotel operator, to divulge the number Standish will call but she refuses as Blake's son is prevented from marrying her only because of his father's opposition. Within the hour another call for the same party comes in over Kitty's switchboard. It is Governor Robinson calling—his wife!

From that time on, action is manifest in every foot of film. Kitty tries to warn Mr. Robinson but the latter refuses to listen. Standish is beside himself for fear that his beautiful wife will learn of his youthful mistake.

Already the sun is rising on—election day, the day on which he ascends to power or goes down to defeat. What happens? That's what you'll discover on seeing "The Telephone Girl." It's whispered about that the director of "Beau Gesto" has delivered again!

"MEN OF THE NIGHT" AT THE THEATRE, HAS FINE CAST WITH GARETH HUGHES WANDA HAWLEY AND OTHERS.

"Men of the Night" at the New Bijou Monday and Tuesday is a Sterling Picture, the first one made by Sterling Productions, Inc., for distribution through the Sterling Pictures Distributing Corporation. Its story concerns a sweet old lady reduced by poverty to selling papers for a living, and two crooks who employed her as a shield against the police at their alleged "Art Shop," in reality a fence where they disposed of the jewels they stole. A strong affection springs up between the younger thief, a man of good instincts led astray by the strong-er nature of Rupert Dodd, his partner. She is soon calling him "son" and he calls her mother." When she learns that the two men are jewel thieves and are planning to rob a titled Englishwoman that night, she follows bent upon inducing Dick Foster, her "son," to give up that sort of life.

She is caught returning to the open safe the jewels that Dick had stolen, and is arrested and charged with the theft. She shields Dick and Dodd, the later for Dick's sake, and is found guilty. But Dick, whom Dodd has promised that his adopted mother shall not suffer for their crime, rebels, fights Dodd to a finish, gives himself up and confesses his guilt. Mrs. Abbott is freed, and Dick's through here influence, and his break with Dodd is given a chance to redeem himself. The girl he has loved and wooed in vain now confesses her love for him.

WRISTON SEES GREATER LOYALTY AMONG STUDENTS

A steady and marked growth of student loyalty to Lawrence college has been shown in the past school year, Dr. Henry M. Wriston, president of the school, said in his final address to the student body at convocation services Thursday morning at Lawrence Memorial chapel. The year has been much better than the preceding one, the president believed.

Disciplinary problems have been managed with less difficulty than last year and the cases have been decreased by about one-half, he stated.

Among the examples of the year showing the development of loyalty to the school, he said, were the new social regime at the college including the Friday night "frolics" and dormitory dances, the high school field day, the varsity banquet, and freshman week.

SUNDAY GAMES
APPLETON AT GREEN BAY.
Oshkosh at Neenah.
Kaukauna at Kimberly.
Menasha at Kimberly.

Two new hurlers will be tried out Sunday by Manager C. O. Baetz of the Appleton Fox River Valley League, baseball team when his squad meets Green Bay in a second place loop battle at the Bay. Kranzuch, a left-hander, who has been hurling for the Appleton Aces and several other strong local teams and at one time played in the local Valley loop squad outfield, will be one of the new men. The other will be Boyle, who hurled some good ball for Appleton last year when supported well. Kranzuch hurled in Stormy Kromer's Homeplayer loop a few years ago.

The new hurlers will be backed by three vets, Reffke, who was responsible for Appleton's only win this year, Sternagle and Crowe. Should one of the rookies falter a member of this trio will be sent to the mound.

Not only will the local mound staff be bolstered but the infield will see two new faces and another new face will appear in the defenses. Radtke will play his usual first base position but it is expected that Joe Shields, Appleton high school athletic director, may be ready to hold down the middle cushion with the close of school. Shields played the bag and was leadoff man for several teams in the strong Wisconsin-Illinois league last year, especially the Madison and LaCrosse Boosters. He was a leading hitter of the loop and a speedy fielder.

At short either Son Tornow, who has played every infield job but first for Appleton in the last few years, and Dutch Brautigan will perform. Brautigan is an old Wisconsin-Illonois player back in the days when Appleton had a team in that circuit and since has managed several clubs. Last will hold down his old job at third.

Gosha, who plays every position in the infield and outfield, will be back where he got his start, the outer gardens. His ability to field will place him in left. Priebe in center field and Baetz in right complete a reliable outfield and the latter pair also supplies a strong batting punch.

In reserve Manage Baetz has Reffke, Crowe and Sternagle, hurlers, who also can play the outer gardens, Brockhause, an infielder, Bowers, an outfielder, and Mayefske, infielder and outfielder

MILLER HUGGINS

Here's a Miller Huggins smile that is not likely to wear off the rest of the season. The Yankee boss has many excuses for smiling: the Yanks are winning continuously, Lou Gehrig and Babe Ruth are having a home-run battle all of their own, Koenig and Lazzeri are setting a dizzy pace for other keystone pairs, and the race looks very favorable for the Yankees.

HUGE SCOREBOARD SHOWS AUTO RACE

Results of Milwaukee Events Can Be Seen in Far Grandstands

Milwaukee,—One of the features in connection with the first automobile races of the season at State Fair Park Sunday will be a hugh scoreboard on the neclosure directly in front of the grand stand. This will enable race patrons to keep close tab on the drivers in the six events scheduled. The figures on the scoreboard will be large enough to be seen from the topmost seat in the big concrete stand.

The races held Memorial day at Cedarburg gave the drivers an excellent chance to try out their mounts as all of those who participated there will enter one of more of the six races here Sunday. Fred Larson of Joliet, Ill., whose car was damaged beyond repair when it caught fire, will have a new one to try for the rich cash prize award.

Four additional entries were received today. These being Al Wagner, Chicago, Wallie Shure, Lake Bluff, Ill., and the two Gueldner brothers—Harold and Elmer, of Sheboygan.

The feature race will be thirty miles. There will be two fives, two tens and one twenty, with time trials at 1:30. The race programs starts at 2:30

SHIELDS, PEOTTER IN HANDBALL TITLE MATCH

The 1927 handball championship of the Y. M. C. A. will be decided this week when George Peotter, crack representative of the city government and winner of previous meets, clashes with Joseph Shields, high school athletic director P. C.: Wesco already has cinched third in the meet which has been running for several months and in which over 40 men competed. The tourney was a double elimination so that a player has to be beaten twice to drop from the race.

Shields lost to Peotter in a hard fought match early in the meet and then went through the lower bracket to the finals without a defeat until booked to battle Peotter again. He beat Peotter in the first-place match in a tough struggle and since each had lost but one match, a playoff was necessary to decide the title.

BORTFIELD WINS FROM BILLY HALL IN EIGHT

Milwaukee—(AP)—Bill Bortfeld, Milwaukee welterweight defeated Bill Hall Chicago, in an eight-round bout here Friday night in the opinion of newspaper men. Johnny Braun, Milwaukee lightweight, stopped Paul Wangley, Chicago, in one round. Ralph Mendoza of Chicago, outpointed Vic Walters of Milwaukee, in an eight round contest. They also are lightweights.

DUNDEE WINS TITLE BY LARGE EDGE IN FIGHT WITH LATZO

Champ. Weakened by Making Low Weight Limit, Unable to Stand Fast Pace

New York—(AP)—After almost a year in the hard coal region of Pensylvania, the welterweight boxing championship of the world has shifted to Baltimore where Samuel Lazzaro learned to fight as an urchin. Grown to rugged manhood and possessed of the fighting name of Joe Dundee he fought way to the championship in 15 furious rounds with Pete Latzo, the titleholder, Friday night at Polo Field.

Thirty thousand persons whooped them on as the former breaker boy rallied to defense of his title against the ex-"champee".

Starting slowly the fight gathered momentum round by round and finished at express train speed with Dundee. Victory and fame within his grasp, pounding out a clean victory on points. Ten of fifteen rounds were his in the opinion of experts at the ringside, and one was even. Only in the first, second, and fourth, and in a desperate rally in the twelfth did the champion excel.

Weakened obviously by the starvation necessary to cut his weight to 147-pound limit, the gallant Latoz could not hold the pace that Dundee hit as the goal of his life came into view. At the end Latzo was battered and bruised, a beaten champion, while Dundee bore hardly a mark.

NEXT WEEK GAMES
Tuesday—Brandt Co. vs Post-Crescent
Wednesday—Co. D. vs Civics club.
Thursday—Bankers vs Interlakes.
Friday—Legion vs Badgers Printers.

Errors by members of the Badger Printing Co. team of the City Twilight Softball league, knocked that team out of a tie for first place in the loop Friday afternoon and decided an exceptionally good hurler's duel between Jacobson of the losers and LaRue of the Interlake Pulp and Paper Co. squad. Both hurlers allowed only four safe blows, but wild pegs by the Printer fielders gave the Interlakes four unearned runs, and a 6-4, win.

The scoring started in the second frame when Timmers singled, stole two bases and scored on Jacobson's hit for the Badgers. Then with two Interlake man on the sacks, a Badger fielder pegged wild in an attempt to catch a runner at the plate on a long hit and all three men scored unearned tallies. The ball went high above the catcher's head. Again in the seventh the winners scored two runs on a bad throw from the outfield. On earned runs the losers had a 4-2 margin.

The lose for the Badgers pulled that crew from a first place tie with the Post-Crescents to a tie for second with the Interlake's winning squad, which had been tied for third before. Several good games are booked for next week. Tuesday the P-C men are favored to take a hard battle from the Brandtmen. Wednesday the Civics club-Co D game is a tossup, and should be a battle as it means last place for the loser. Thursday old rivals of the 1926 league, the Bankers and Interlakes clash. The game is a second place battle, with the Bankers tieing for the position by a win, so that fur is sure to fly. Friday comes another second place scrap with the Legion and Badger Printers meeting. A win for the Legion squad means a tie for second. That crew has won its last two games, showing new strength and will give the Badger stars plenty of worry.

SEVEN LETTERMEN BACK ON GOLD GRID

Beloit Will Have Light But Fast Football Squad Next Season

Beloit,—Next year's Beloit college football team will be light, but fast, according to Coach Roy Bohler at the end of the spring football practice season. The spring practice has had beneficial results, and Coach Bohler is much pleased with developments.

A working squad of 43 men turned out consistently for the spring practice, and prospects for next year have brightened considerable, according to the coach. Of the 16 letter men of last season, the school is losing nine by graduation.

Of the seven lettermen who will return, only one, Mort Balch, is a senior. Stewart Lawrence, quarterback from Elgin, Ill will captain next year's team. A large percentage of next year's squad will be sophomores. Fall practice will begin Sept. 15, and the schedule for next season is:

Oct. 1, North Central at Beloit; Oct. 8, Cornell at Mt. Vernon, Ia.; Oct. 15, Monmouth at Monmouth, Ill.; Oct. 22, Knox at Beloit, (Homecoming); Oct. 29, Lawrence at Appleton; Nov. 5, Lake Forest at Beloit, Nov. 12, Ripon at Beloit; Nov. 19, Coe college at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Metzler Successfully Fills Mostil's Shoes

BY BILLY EVANS

From Main Street in Wichita Falls, Tex., to State Street in Chicago is quite a leap as baseball goes, but Alex Metzler appears to have negotiated it successfully.

Which is just another way of saying that the Lone Star rookie from Wichita Falls has made good as a member of the Chicago White Sox of the American League.

Not only is Metzler one of the few recruits of this year to deliver but, in so doing, he is filling one of the most difficult roles in baseball, taking the place of Johnny Mostil, generally regarded as the greatest outfielder in baseball.

As has been the case with many of the present day stars Metzler was unearthed by Connie Mack. A batting average well over the [illegible] mark in the fast-going Texas League caused Mack's scouts to recommend his [illegible] purchase.

Joining the Athletics [illegible] Metzler managed to break into [illegible] games as a pinch hitter or reliefer. While showing promise, his batting average of .2[illegible] was [illegible] disappointing, since an ability to hit was one of the things [illegible] boosting Metzler.

Failure to win [illegible] son caused Connie [illegible] plans for this year [illegible] ing the winter he [illegible] which brought to the Athletics [illegible] two veterans stars, T[illegible] Wheat. Mack also [illegible] Simmons, the [illegible] and Walter French [illegible] chant, making five [illegible]

When Metzler reported to the Athletics this spring it was [illegible] was little or no chance for him to break into the lineup. No [illegible] rookie could be expected to pit his ability against such an array of outstanding stars. It looked like a year on the bench, or possibly a trip back to the minors for Metzler for further seasoning.

Then came the Mostil tragedy which provided the break for Metzler, giving him his big opportunity, a real chance to stick in the majors.

Hard pressed for outfielders, due to Mostil's defection, Manager Ray Schalk of the Chicago White Sox made a hurried canvas of the probable surplus talent on the different American League clubs. It didn't seem probable that Metzler would be carried by Mack and immediate negotiations were entered into for his services. The White Sox finally secured him shortly after the opening of the season.

As a matter of fact, a serious injury to [illegible] Boone, slated to play one of the outfield positions, helped Metzler [illegible] the majors.

A few [illegible] after his arrival in Chicago, he [illegible] into the lineup, [illegible] in center. [illegible] going back to his original [illegible] in right.

A NEW CHAMPION CROWNED

Polo Grounds, N. Y.—(AP)— Joe Dundee, Baltimore Italian, won the world's welterweight championship Friday night, dethroning Pete Latzo of Scranton, Pa., with a decisive victory on points in a fifteen round match. Dundee is a product of St. Mary's Industrial school, which produced Babe Ruth and Al Jolson.

Hornsby Says Curves Are Spoiling Slugging

Rogers Hornsby believes the day of the .400 batter in the National League is, temporarily at least, but a memory.

That is a rather interesting assertion in view of the lively ball in use and the curtailment of freak pitching, two decided advantages to the batter.

Hornsby, who led the National League for six consecutive years, and during that run of batting championships thrice finished with a mark of better than .400, is perhaps the best qualified man in the National League, if not the majors, to discuss hitting.

It was in 1920 that Hornsby first won the batting championship of the National League. His average that year was .370, the lowest figure in all the six years that he led the procession. His best mark was .424, made in 1924.

Why does Hornsby believe the .400 batsman is but a memory in the National League? Well, I will let him tell you as he told me.

"Curve ball pitching has made the trick of getting base hits just 25 per cent more difficult during the last three years.

"That may sound like a rather peculiar statement, when one realizes that curve ball pitching has been a part of every pitcher's repertoire for many years.

"What I want to say, is that curve ball pitching is almost an exclusive style of pitching with a majority of the National League twirlers. Batters in our league see at least two, perhaps three hooks to every fast ball.'

At the stage in his explanation he asked me if that was true of the American, that he understood the fast ball still got a good play.

I assured him that the fast ball was still much used in the American and that I was positive he was right when he said the National League pitchers threw far more curves.

"I wouldn't be surprised if the player leading our league this year failed to hit more than .350," continued Hornsby.

"National League pitchers, as a whole, have developed the curve to a high degree. Any batter will tell you it is more difficult to get a toe-hold when setting for a curve than a fast one.

"The fast ball through the heart is the exception in the National. The opposing pitcher usually busts a fast one under your chin just to let you know he still has it, a bit of intimidation.

"However, my hitting isn't giving me any concern. In the spring of 1926 I said I would much rather win a pennant with the Cardinals than lead the league in hitting for the seventh time. I got my wish. I hit only .317 last year, but was satisfied."

This year the shoe is on the other foot. Hornsby doesn't care what he hits, just so long as the Giants beat the Cardinals. He is positive New York will trim St. Louis.

WHITE SOX CREEP UP ON HUGGINSMEN

Schalk Crew Within Two Games of Top Saturday; Giants Again in 2nd

Eastern leadership of the American League is under steady fire by invading teams from the west.

Victorious in the four latest battles in their circuit, the invaders are making things hot for the Yankees whose point advantage in the percentage column has shrunk noticeably.

Through Detroit's victory over the Yankees, 3 to 1, and a triumph for the second place Chicago White Sox the leaders margin sank to one and one half games or 37 points.

The Yankees were beaten by the Detroit Tigers, 3 to 1. The White Sox meanwhile were beating the Boston Red Sox for the second time in two days. Fourteen hits for the home team netted them but a single run while eight White Sox safeties were cashed for five runs. Home team fans in the American League had little to cheer about as the westerners made a clean sweep. St. Louis walloped the Senators 8—4, and Cleveland downed the Athletics, 3 to 1.

The east scored two victories in the three games played in the National League. New York crept up again to second place as Virgil Barnes held the Reds to three hits for a 6 to 0 shutout, while the Braves bested the Cubs in a hitting match, 5 to 4. The lone western victory in the league was a walkaway for Pittsburg, 11 to 1, over the Quakers. Working best in the pinches in spite of momentarily erratic support in the field, Vic Aldridge held the Phils to just four hits while his own team made 15 safeties including three home runs.

VALLEY SPORTS TAKE WIN FROM BANK TEAM

The Valley Sporting Goods Co. softball team defeated the Bankers of the City Twilight League Friday evening at old Lawrence field by a score of 19-8. Bernhardt and Engle featured with the bat for the winners while King of the losers pulled off several sensational catches in the infield. Sunday the Sports will meet the strong Mulford team of the Kaukauna Twilight loop at Roosevelt field in an interesty game.

Batteries Friday were Duffner and Engle for the Sports and McKenzie and Stoegbauer for the Banks.

LEGION SQUAD TAKES TOP IN KIMBERLY LOOP

Kimberly-Errors on the part of the Kimberly Villagers gave the American Legion squad a 11-8 victory in a Kimberly Twilight Softball League game Friday evening and tied the Soldiers for first place in the loop with the Wrinkle Rounders. Each has won two games and lost none, while the Villagers and Clubhouse Boosters have lost two and won none.

The Legion squad led from the start by taking four runs in the first frame and four in the second while the Villagers could get only one in the first and two in the second. The winners were never approached by the losers except in the final frame when the Village crew scored three runs. Briggs, Legion hurler, allowed eight hits and Melcher of the Villagers gave seven. Briggs got two hits, including a homer and three runs; Judkins of the Legion got one hit and three runs; Williams of the Villagers got a hit and three runs; and Huntington of the Villages got two hits and a run.

Monday Wrinkle's Rounders and the Legion crew battle to break the first place tie.

Score by innings:

Legion	4	4	0	0	0	0	3	0	0	—11
Villagers	1	2	0	0	0	0	2	0	3	— 8

Batteries—Legion, Briggs and Pallman; Villagers, Melcher and Gossens.

SPRINTER IS CAPTAIN OF BADGER TRACKMEN

Madison — (AP) — Gilbert J. Smith, Milwaukee, was elected captain of the 1928 Wisconsin track team Friday, succeeding Charles McGinnis. Smith is a sprinter.

New York—(AP)— George Courtney, Oklahoma, won on a foul from K. O. Phil Kaplan, New York (2).

AMERICAN LINKS STARS TAKE LEAD IN RYDER TOURNEY

Britishers Lose 3 of 4 Matches in Struggle for Pro Supremacy

Worcester, Mass.—(AP)—The American professional golf team was confident Saturday that the next sunset over the Worcester Country club course would see possession of the prized Samuel Ryder Cup pass from British to native hands.

The home breds won a grip on the golden trophy by taking three of the four Scotch foursomes from the invaders.

Victory in four of the eight singles Saturday would be enough to obtain the trophy. An analysis of Friday's play indicated that the Americans might do better than that. Saturday matches, like the foursome, at 36 holes are;

Aubrey Boomer vs. Jonny Farrell; Charles Whitcombe vs. Gene Sarazen; Arthur Havers vs Walter Hagen; Ted Ray vs. Leo Diegel; Archie Compston vs. Al Espinosa; Fred Robeson vs. Al. Watrous; George Duncan vs. Joe Turnes; Bert Jolly vs John Golden.

Friday's foursomes resulted as follows:

Aubrey Boomer and Charles Whitcombe defeated Leo Diegel and Bill Mehlhorn, 7 and 5.

Gene Sarazen and Al Watrous defeated Arthur Havers and Bert Jolly, 3 and 2.

Walter Hagen and John Golden defeated Ted Ray and Fred Robeson, 2 and 1.

Jonny Farrell and Joe Turnesa defeated George Duncan and Archie Compston, 8 and 6.

KLOEHN WHIPPETS WIN BATTLE FROM OUTLAWS

O. R. Kloehn's Whippets won their fifth game of the season by taking their former teammates, the Outlaws into camp by a score of 24-13. The game was a slugging battle but the Whippets hit harder in the pinches to win the game.

The teams were battled along evenly until the seventh when the Whippets knocked Crowe all over the lot and Van Wyk, who released him was hit just as hard. The Outlaws hit Strutz hard in the early part of the game but they never were even close to the winners' score.

The Whippets made 21 hits off Crowe and Van Wyk while the losers got 17 off Strutz and Mienberg. Many hits were due to darkness late in the game.

Batteries—Outlaws, Crowe, Van Wyk and Loesselyong; Whippets, Strutz, Mienberg and Bowers.

BADGER PREPS QUALIFY IN NATIONAL CONTEST

Chicago —(AP)— Soldiers field was soggy from rain Saturday as qualifiers in the National Interscholastic track and field meet took to the cinders and to the infield for finals in the several events.

Although Fort Collins, Colorado, qualified eight youths Friday, a three-man squad from Cass Tech, Detroit, promised the westerners a neat battle for meet honors.

Fort Atkinson, Shorewood and Kenosha, athletes qualified in the field events. The qualifiers include:

Discus—Henze, Fort Atkinson and Crowley, Shorewood; Pole vault Jasenich, Kenosha; Javelin, Erdman, Kenosha.

Syracuse, N. Y. —Bobby Williams, Marcellus, New York, defeated Babe McCorgary, Oklahoma (10.).

HUSKY LEADER

"SWEDE" JOHNSTON

A fitting reward for his service this year was the captaincy of the 1928 high school track team which his mates voted to Chester Johnston this week. Johnston entered six meets this year, including the Valley conference, and in all six he was undefeated in three events, the only ones he was allowed to enter in four contests. He was beaten in the 100-yard dash, shot put and broad jump, an especially varied field of events, and in each he set a new Valley mark. He heaved the shot 43' 8" for hi smark, jumped 21' 1½" and ran the hundred in 10.5 and later 10.4. He also would have been good for a first in the discus and a first or second in the high jump, had he been allowed to enter more than three events. He won the discus against Oshkosh.

Chuck is a three-letter man. He was all-conference fullback by unanimous choice. In basketball he played his first year and by its end he had earned a regular forward berth, an exceptional record for a man who had never really tried the game, with a team like Appleton's second place crew and in a conference like the Valley loop.

SIX TRACK LETTER MEN BACK TO BLUE

Four Members of 1927 Squad, All Stars, Lost to Denny Next Year

Six lettermen of the 1927 Lawrence college track and field squad, which took second place in the Wisconsin-Illinois conference meet, right on the heels of the Ripon champs, will return for the 1928 squad. Of the ten men who received letters this year only four are lost, but they include some of the best and most versatile performers on the squad.

The losses are McConnell, Hipke, Nason and Heideman, each a point-winner in more than one event. McConnell has been high point winner for the Bluemen for three years and is credited with first in the pole vault, broad jump, high hurdles and high jump, his favorite event. He averages 13 points a meet. Capt. Hipke holds the W-I record in the shotput and has been undefeated for two years in the event in the loop, beside placing second in the Midwest play. He also places in the discus and javelin. Nason has taken first in the pole vault and is a consistent point winner in the broad jump and javelin and is a good relay man. Heideman excells in the javelin and high and low hurdles.

Returning lettermen are Pope, frosh sprinter; the Hyde twins, Don and Doug, stars in the 100, 220, 440, low hurdles and relays; Menning, W-I conference half mile champ; Wolfe, frosh miler, and Mueller, two mile star. Aiding them will be Clark, sprinter; Fischly and Jones, middle distance men; Earnard, jumper and weight man; Artz, weights; and several others.

DETROIT WANTS RISKO, DEMPSEY BOUT JULY 4

Detroit— (AP)— A group of local sportsmen, headed by Floyd Fitzsimmons, is negotiating with Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion to meet Johnny Risko of Cleveland in a ten round boxing contest here July 4 it was announced by Charles M. Hall, member of the Michigan State Boxing commission.

The proposed bout which would be held at Navin Field, American League baseball park, would headline a program including a lightweight championship contest between Sammy Mandell and Phil McGraw, Mr. Hall announced.

The INSIDE of BASEBALL

BY BILLY EVANS

1. Is it possible for a player to get more than one assist when he handles the ball several times in retiring a runner?

2. Batsman hits improperly, mistake is discovered, proper batsman called out, who gets the put out?

3. Fielder deflects a ground ball to another player who retires the batsman at first, how is it scored?

4. Player attempts steal of second base and makes it easily because of a bad throw on part of the catcher, Is he charged with an error?

5. Fielder drops fly ball but recovers it in time to force a runner at another base. Does that exempt him from an error?

THIS TELLS IT

1. No. Player is credited with only one assist regardless of the number of times he handles the ball in making the out.

2. Catcher is credited with a putout.

3. Fielder who deflects ball to other player is credited with an assist, also the player who made the throw, while fielder who completed the play gets the putout.

4. No error is charged unless baserunner advances an extra base because of the bad throw.

5. Making forceout on another player exempts fielder who dropped fly ball from being charged with an error.

COOPER MAY TAKE OPEN LINKS MEET

Lighthorse Harry, Either Real Good or Real Bad, Is About Due

BY JIMMY POWERS

Oakmont Country Club, Pa. — A young fellow, scarcely out of his 'teens—Lighthorse Harry Cooper—is liable to run away and hide from the field at the U. S. open here or else he is doomed to wallow back in the depths of the dubbing finishers.

That's Lighthorse, this colorful lad from the state of abnormal oranges and small potatoes. His golf has two extremities. He is either exceptionally brilliant or miserably mediocre.

Either in the 60s or in the 80s—that's Lighthorse.

This year Californians are unshaken in their convictions regarding Harry. They figure he is due to smack the reigning favorites. At that he is a good long shot play. He trimmed the mighty Walter Hagen down south this spring and, while Walter has been a bit off his feed lately, he had no alibis to offer either prior to or following his tasty licking by Cooper.

While Californians will be rooting clear across the continent for their favorite, you will find a goodly number of feminine fans trailing his gallery, for it is whispered the dapper coast ball swatter has loads of "It." He has a pleasing personality and radiates genial good will.

And if you intend to follow Harry for a hole or two, start conditioning yourself now. He's the fastest mortal on a golf course.

BUILDING OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT, SUPPLY COMPANY INDICATES

Many Residences Are Under Construction Here, Business Man Reports

The outlook for building conditions in Appleton during the coming year is bright, according to Roy Schabo, manager of the Henry Schabo and Son, fuel and building supply company on W. College Ave. The company was organized about three years ago and deals in wood, coal, lime, cement, sewer pipe, building materials.

While there are no large buildings under construction now, there are many residences being built, and it appears as though the number to be erected during the summer will exceed last years mark. The indicated building materials are at about the same price as last year.

Frame dwellings costing between $3,000 and $5,000 are most popular although there are some brick dwellings being constructed. Simple construction, rather than elaborate plans, are favored. The modern home owner is very exacting and most homes are built of Grade 1 lumber. Many conveniences such as built-in ironing boards and breakfast nooks are popular.

The price of wood for fuel is somewhat lower than at this same time in 1926. There was a great deal of wood burned this spring owing to the fact that cold weather returned after many people had allowed their furnaces to go out. More wood is burned during the summer months because many people do not care to keep coal fire going.

THEY'RE POOR SPELLERS

Omaha, Neb.—Many a business man who upbraids his stenographer for poor spelling can do no better himself, according to the scores in a spelling bee held by the Omaha Chamber of Commerce. "Breasy," "accomaate," "pidgeon," "vituals," and "extreem" were only a few of the glaring errors brought to light in the test.

IRON PRODUCTION DECLINES IN MAY

Total for Month Is 3,391,038 or Decrease of 4 Per Cent, Reports Show

Cleveland, O.—Iron Trade Review says: Pig iron production declined 4 per cent in May. A preliminary estimate places the month's total at 3,391,038 tons, compared with 3,524,276 tons in April and 112,187 tons last May. 1926. The daily average rate in May was 109,388 tons, first 414,146 tons in April and 112,1877 tons last May. At the close of May, 212 blast furnaces or 9 less than at the beginning, were active.

This decline in pig iron production, seems likely to prove representative as well of the situation in steel ingots. Judging from the dearth of spot pig iron buying and the lighter specifications for finished steel, the downward trend in production could continue at least through early June.

May brought [illegible] ident . . the position of steel producers. Coincident with a seasonal contraction of demand, consumers developed a tendency to pare their orders to a still finer point, and the meager backlogs of the mills have almost vanished. Excepting sheets, strip and coldfinished bars, the price situation became progressively easer.

June opens with the iron and steel industry focussing attention upon the third quarter. Inquiry for this delivery is broadening and while not yet at the peak, is sufficient to promise a good quarter, possibly better than the second in point of tonnage. Large automotive interests are contracting this week for third quarter; with a new Ford in the offing and other makers expected to hold their own, the outlook is improved. Much of the 52,000 tons of heavy finished steel, required for freight cars now on inquiry, will be rolled next quarter. Farm implement manufacturers will be specifying for their fall run.

Third quarter interest in pig iron is developing, as usual, earliest in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan and the Buffalo district.

While greater strength seems to be accruing in sheet prices, the real test will be afforded at Detroit this week when large automotive interests, particularly General Motor subsidiaries, contract for the third quarter. The level of 4.25 cents Pittsburg on auto body sheets is subjected to the greatest pressure.

For plates, shapes and bars based at Pittsburg, 1.85 cents appears to have become the general market and concessions under this level have been made on attractive business. The disposition of consumers to place their buying under further check has intensified sales effort and mill competition has rarely been keener.

Reflecting largely the weakness in tin plate, the Iron Trade Review composite of fourteen leading iron and steel products has declined 26 cents, now standing at $36.40.

Business Volume Good But Profits Dwindle

Babson Park, Mass.—As we are approaching the half way mark for the year 1927 Mr. Babson was asked to give us his views on the business outlook. His official statement follows:

"I have a habit of asking everyone I meet, in business, in dining cars and smoking compartments, and in the hotels, 'How's Business?' Never before have I found such a difference of opinion. Some would reply 'fine' others, 'poor' and others 'just so so.' The consensus of opinion seems to be that the volume of business is very good; but that profits are gradually dwindling. It is really surprising to see the very small margin of profit under which many large concerns are today operating.

"From a statistical point of view, business continues to show up very well, when considering a comparison of the last reporting month of this year with the same month a year ago. Most of these figures show up satisfactorily and indicate a better business situation, but it will be noticed that some very important indicators are unsatisfactory. For instance, failures show an increase of 100 per cent; idle freight cars show an increase of 32 per cent, employment shows a decrease of 5 per cent, while all of the commodity indices show decreases. The unfilled tonnage of the United States Steel Corporation, a very important indicator, also shows a decrease.

"When all of these business indicators are properly weighed and combined in the Babsonchart of Business Conditions, we have a summary of 7 per cent above normal. Thus, the volume of business is still good: but profits are rapidly declining, due to falling commodity prices and increased expenses. This naturally increases business failures, which in turn causes unemployment. Therefore, although the volume of business is good, statistics indicate that business may now be headed in the wrong direction. We must not be like the ostrich and stick our heads in the sand.

BUSINESS CYCLES STILL WORK

'A very pernicious and dangerous doctrine is being preached today; namely, that business cycles are a thing of the past.

It is true the Federal Reserve Board has greatly lessened dangers of panics and depressions from the National Banks and Trust Companies which operate under the Federal Reserve System. The Federal Reserve System, however, has not changed human nature, nor has it reduced borrowing which has really been the cause, in the past, of the banks getting into trouble. There is more borrowing of all kinds today than ever before, both legitimate and illegitimate. Instead of the banks under the Federal Reserve System extending this credit, it is being extended by private finance corporations which have no government or state supervision. The country's financial situation is similar to its liquor situation. Theoretically both bad banking and liquor have been eliminated, but practically, a large amount of bad banking is being transacted and a large amount of liquor is being consumed.

"Bootlegging exists in the financial world the same as in the underground world and the next panic will be brought about by bootleg banking. One of these private finance corporations, without Federal or state supervision, has more capital today than any supervised bank in the world and there are hundreds of private finance corporations in operation. Business men may rest assured that the business cycle will continue to operate although the causes of each swing differ. Over the centuries the variations from normal will be gradually decreased and the curves will gradually flatten out; but these changes will be most gradual and we shall never live to see much difference between the panics and bread lines of tomorrow and those of a generation ago.

THE BEST POLICY TO FOLLOW

"The nation today is in a different position than ever before. During previous periods such as this, institutions and corporations have been over extended while individuals have been fairly free from debt. This was due to the fact that before the days of instalment buying the individual did not owe much money. At the time of the last great panic less than 10% of the people were in debt, while only a fraction of 1% had anything taken away from them. Today institutions and corporations have a great surplus of funds, but individuals are in debt. Where less than 7% of individuals owed money twenty years ago, probably 30% owe money today. I am not complaining about the situation, but I am calling attention to it for this reason: The best way to prepare for the future is to keep doing business, to keep pushing sales, and to keep all employed, but to get out of debt. Whether you are a bull or a bear, you can well afford to reduce your indebtedness and get those that owe you to reduce theirs.

No one thing would do the United States so much good today as an Anti-Debt Campaign. We have had all kinds of Anti organizations, from Anti-Cigarette Leagues to Anti-Saloo Leagues, but the one kind of league I would like to see started throughout the country is an Anti-Debt League.

"The one thing which surprises me most about the present day business man is the needless personal indebtedness he is carrying. I can understand why a man personally will borrow a little money to get a start. I also understand the advantages of large corporate units with stock and bond issues, together with a reasonable amount of floating debt. But why a man, after getting enough money to have reasonable independence, will go into personal debt and endorse notes just to get a little more money, is beyond my understanding. Why corporations reasonably successful will put out short-time notes or borrow so heavily that the bankers may at any time close down on them is also incomprehensible.

It is far better to have a small personal income and be free from debt than a larger income with notes and endorsements hanging over one's head. Probably no one thing has shortened the lives of more business men than the worry which has come from meeting notes when these men were ill or needed rest. Had it not been for these confounded notes, they could have taken time to recuperate: but because of these notes they worried, got out of bed too soon, refused to take vacations, and soon they were gone. Of course, the bankers got their money; and the doctors, undertakers and lawyers got theirs, but what did the poor borrowers get out of it except a funeral? This is no joke; it is the result of statistical research. If you debut it, study the birth and death figures on the tombstones of the cemetery of your city where your business men are buried.

"Some men will say that they are borrowing money, or personally endorsing their corporation's notes (which is the same thing) for their families' sake in order to give more to their children. Such parents are making a great mistake. All statistics tend to show that the children of employes have a better chance for success than have the children of employers. Your children don't need any more money, but they do need more of your time and comradeship. Leaving them more money or giving them more money now will probably do them more harm than good. Be honest with yourselves and admit that the real reason for your going into debt is your ambition.—your desire to have a bigger business than your competitors have and your pride in making a success of what you attempt.

"A certain amount of ambition and pride is a good thing; but it should be used to help us live longer and more useful lives rather than to shorten our lives. There is no sense in killing the goose that lays the golden eggs. This is what wives do when they permit their husbands to go into debt for houses, jewels, automobiles, and European trips. This is what children do when they neglect their fathers for automobile parties, and are everywhere except at home. Wives and children can do a great thing for their husbands and fathers by keeping them out of debt. This they can accomplish; first, by demanding less; and second, by giving them more time and making the home more attractive than the office.

BABSON'S FOUR CONCLUSIONS

"(1) Today banking credit conditions are sound; but credit conditions, based upon individuals, are very bad, owing to the great growth in instalment sales which are undermining the entire country.

"(2) Money is comparatively easy now and hence the year 1927 will be a favorable time for getting others to pay up their indebtedness to you, or for reducing inventories so that you can get out of debt yourself. By all means get out of personal debt during 1927, both as a borrower and as an endorser.

"(3) Such indebtedness as is necessary for your business, capitalize during 1927—if possible in the form of stock issues, otherwise as long term bond issues.

"(4) Curb your ambition—when it tempts you to increase above a reasonable level, either your business or your personal expenditures, stop! This is the same way to prepare for 1928."

PEOTTER OFFERS QUICK HELP WITH TOWING SERVICE

Prompt Attention Is Given to Emergency Calls 24 Hours Every Day

With the exceptional increase of automobiles in recent years and the accompanying increasing numbers of accidents, towing and repair services are coming to play a more and more prominent part in the life of every motorist, according to Carl Peotter of the Peotter Towing and Repair service, 621 W. College-ave. Mr. Peotter has been in business in Appleton for several years and has gained a reputation for guaranteed workmanship.

One of the features of Mr. Peotter's business is the prompt attention given to emergency calls. Expert workmanship in repairing wrecked automobiles of every make, no matter what the extent of the damage is, has resulted in the growth of his business each year until it has been necessary to engage several assistants.

Straightening frames and axles and repairing wheels and springs is a part of the service offered. No matter what the extent of the damages, the Peotter service will make a wrecked car look like new again.

Towing service is furnished to any garage in the city at all hours of the day or night. This service is offered to those people who want prompt towing accommodations but desire to have their repair work done at their own favorite garage. The Peotter repair department is completely equipped with the necessary tools and equipment for all kinds of repair work.

While no motorist desires to experience an accident, little trouble need be encountered because it is so easy to merely phone Peotter's. Patient: "Good morning, Doctor. I think I need to have my eyes examined."
Oculist: "I should think so, if you imagine it's a good morning—look at it rain outside. Take this chair, please, and close your left eye."
Patient: "I can't close it, sir."
Oculist: "You can't? Well, I'll call the nurse. Miss Barry?"
Nurse: "Yes, Doctor! Oh, dear, what is the matter with this poor, sweet man?"
Oculist: "You may go now, Miss Barry. The patient closed his left eye very nicely. Now, sir, do you see double? No? Then drink this, and you will in a few minutes. Let's see, how many eyes have you?"
Patient: "What do you take me for, a potato?"
Oculist: "No, only I've been taking some of my own medicine, and for the life of me I can't tell which one of those eyes on the right side of those noses is bothering you. Say 'Ah!'."
Patient: "I want my eyes examined not my throat!"
Oculist: "Yes, I know, but we're going to sing Sweet Adeline as soon as we take some more medicine and I want to know what kind of a voice you have. Now we'll examine your eyes—well, well, they seem to be badly dotted. Look out of this window and tell me what you see. Can you see that signboard across the street?"
Patient: "Yes, and right under the signboard is a goodlooking girl. She's wearing a short dress, and the wind is blowing a little, and—"
Oculist: "That's enough. I know just what kind of glasses you need. Here you are—a pair of thick, black spectacles! NEXT PATIENT!"

formalities of his departure over, reached the field in company with Ambassador Herrick and Parmely Herrick, and others.

AMBASSADOR'S FAREWELL

There was little formal leave taking. Ambassador Herrick put his long right arm around the lanky boy, who has become in two short weeks almost a son to him, and with emotion plainly visible on his face, said au revoir and wished him good luck.

Lindy, saying goodbye to his host, also was somewhat affected and faltered as he thanked the Ambassador for his kindness. "When you come to America," he said, "I fant you to come to see me." The other goodbys were just as brief, and Lindbergh hopped into the plane.

Once more flying a strange machine, he made a perfect takeoff. Two of the planes accompanied Lindy as an escort of honor to Cherbourg.

Tuesday Is Last Day for Filing Disability Claims

Tuesday, June 7 has been set by the Veterans' Bureau as the last day on which claims for disability resulting from injuries in war time may be filed by ex-soldiers, according to Harvey Priebe, commander of Oney Johnston post of the American legion. With Memorial day just passed and the real suffering of war recalled by speakers and observances, there is a special challenge for every citizen, Mr. Priebe said.

If anyone knows of an injured soldier who has refused to accept government aid through pride or unwillingness to receive what he looks upon as charity, he should persuade that soldier to file his claim, it was said. The Veterans Bureau now is spending $15,000,0000 every month for the care of disabled soldiers but the sum means nothing. Every disabled fighter should and must be given the care he deserves, Mr. Priebe said.

The bureau also announced that all applications for reinstatement of lapsed war risk insurance must be made before July 2. The government now has six permanent forms of converted life insurance, as well as a five-year convertible term policy, which automatically becomes an ordinary life policy at the close of the period.

AWARD DAMAGES OF $5,500 TO KLEIST IN $10,000 SUIT

Driver of Truck Was Guilty of Want of Ordinary Care, Jury Finds

Damages totaling $5,550 were awarded Reuben Kleist, Appleton, in his suit for $10,000 against Cohodas Brothers Co., Green Bay, in a special verdict returned by a jury in the circuit court branch municipal court Friday afternoon.

The jury allowed $550 damages on the plaintiff's car, and $5,000 for other damages.

A collision between an automobile driven by the plaintiff and a truck belonging to the defendant on Federal Highway 41, late in the afternoon of Nov. 26, 1926, caused the suit.

The truck was parked on the highway with the lights turned off, and was out in the road so far that there was not sufficient room to permit another car to pass, it was alleged by the plaintiff. The crash occurred several hundred feet north of the city limits of Kaukauna. Kleist ran into the truck.

Kleist said the truck was covered with a drab colored canvas, and he did not see it because of a misty rain and snow and the darkness.

A fractured skull and cuts about his arms and face which will leave permanent scars, and a permanent injury to his left eye, were alleged by the plaintiff as a result of the collision.

The defendant denied that the driver of the truck, Lambert Van Boxel, was guilty of want of ordinary care. It was further charged that Kleist was driving rapidly, that he failed to exercise ordinary care in looking out for parked cars and that he did not have his machine under control.

Four questions were answered in the special verdict.

The first held that the alleged collision occurred; the second was that Van Boxel, the employe of the Cohodas Brothers Co., was guilty of want of ordinary care in parking his vehicle; his negligence resulted in the injuries to the plaintiff, according to the answer to the third question. The fourth question had to do with the amount of damages.

The venire was as follows: John Kippenham, 1315 S. Mason-st; August Bensch, 126 W. Winnebago-st; Carroll Rector, 1421 N. Harriman-st; Lloyd Ackerman, 912 W. Oklahoma-st; C. S. Manville, 915 W. Fourth-st; R. H. Wuerger, 738 W. Fourth-st; William Van Wyk, 905 E. Wisconsin-ave; Frank Turnee, 615 N. Sampson-st; John K. Gluck, 621 N. Sampson-st; A. R. Nagreen, 317 E. College-ave; L. G. Williams, 711 S. Telulah-ave; Frank Ponschok, 1413 S. Madison-st.

The suit opened Thursday morning before Judge Theodore Berg. Attorneys were Morgan and Johns for the plaintiff and Benton and Bosser for the defendants.

2,000 AMAZED BY CATTLE DISPLAY AT GUERNSEY PICNIC

Fern Dell Farms Entertain Huge Crowd at State Association Gathering

Green Bay—Two thousand people attended the State Guernsey Breeders' association picnic at the Fern-Dell Guernsey farm near here Friday. They came early and were entertained with the display of dairy cattle in the barns. The management of the Fern-Dell farm supplied the crowd with bottled milk, ice cream and coffee. The visitors came to have a good time and they had it in one of the biggest events of the kind ever held in this section of the state.

In the forenoon, after the visitors had inspected the barns, a procession headed by the Nicolet High School band of West De Pere, formed in the south yard. The procession moved out of the yard along the highway and into another yard on the opposite side of the street and thence to the demonstration grounds.

In the afternoon for the benefit of the late arrivals the procession was repeated.

In his welcoming speech, J. H. Mc Gillian, mayor of Green Bay, said that farming in Wisconsin because it is founded on the dairy industry never fails. Dairying is an industry that will last as long as mankind endures. It does not carry with it useless nor distructive agencies but those that contribute to the betterment of the people and for this reason it lives.

The mayor congratulated Brown-co for having the Fern-Dell Farms. These farms will leave their impress upon this community and nation permanently as a result of the improvement they are making in the dairying industry, he said.

In his speech on Further Development of Wisconsin Dairy, Markets, W. A. Duffy, commissioner of Agriculture, recommended a continuance of the campaign for the eradication of bovine tuberculosis, and praised the work of cow testing associations, urged an increase in the consumption of dairy products and be advised in a system of advertising dairy cattle and dairy products.

In his talk on Organization in Agricultural Affairs, W. A. James, president of the James Manufacturing Company, traced the life of the founder of the Fern-Dell Farms from the time he earned $700 and started a grocery store in Green Bay to the time he turned the Fern-Dell Farms over to his sons. From the grocery business he reached out to the canning business, and to get raw material first hand for canning he bought the 40 acre tract which was the nucleus of the present Fern-Dell Farms According to the speaker, Mr. Larson started dairying with a herd of Shorthorns, changed to Holsteins and finally to Guernseys. Mr. James paid a splendid tribute to Mr. Larson for his vision, business capacity, executive ability and for the splendid monument he left behind him in the Fern-Dell Farms. He lauded the sons for continuing the business enterprises started by their father, for making farther extensions and improvments.

Other speakers were Dr. W. A. Munn, president of the State Breeders' association; A. J. Grover, editor of Hoard's Dairyman and R. F. Malin, secretary of the chamber of commerce, Green Bay.

Before the conclusion of the day's program, a resolution was unanimously adopted favoring the continuance of the campaign to the end for the eradication of tuberculosis from the herds of Wisconsin.

CHAMBERLIN BEGINS "MYSTERY FLIGHT"

his regard for his wife. If she had known in advance, they said, her agony would have been prolonged.

FOLLOW "LINDY'S" ROUTE

The destination of the Columbia was not announced prior to the departure, but Chamberlin said that he would fly to Newfoundland and follow the Great Circle, the route Captain Lindbergh took. He said the destination was the farthest point from New York that he could pilot the plane. The purpose of the flight, he said, was to break the long distance nonstop flight record. That means that he is aiming to beat the record of Captain Lindbergh, who flew 3,670 miles in 33 hours and 29 minutes.

BEGS WIFE'S FORGIVENESS

New York—When Charles A. Levine hatless and in ordinary business clothes, stepped suddenly into the monoplane Columbia Saturday and hopped off with Clarence Chamberlin, he left behind a letter to his young wife, begging her forgiveness and explaining that to make such a flight had been the crowning ambition of his life.

She was reached by telephone at her summer home by the Associated Press shortly after noon and told that the Columbia had been passing safely over Yarmouth. She expressed delight and supreme confidence in her husband and Chamberlin.

GENERAL PAINT CO. INC.

IS NOW LOCATED IN THEIR

NEW FACTORY AT 118 N. BENNETT ST.

Rapid Growth

Three years ago last May this company started in a small factory at 538 N. Morrison Street. The business grew and grew until the quarters became crowded and we were forced to seek a larger factory. This new factory was then erected giving ample room for expansion. Here we have a large office, waiting room, stock room, mixing room, and the second floor for raw materials. We would be pleased to show you through our plant. It is one of the most modern paint factories in the state.

At the present time the organization consists of Messrs. A. H. Millen, Pres. and Treas.; L. A. Carey, Vice. Pres. and Sec.; R. Hill, Plant Manager. The salesmen for the company are: L. A. Carey, Appleton; Wm. Weimar, Outagamie County; W. J. Butler, Neenah and Menasha; A. W. Claussen, Calumet and Winnebago Counties and H. A. Shoenich, Waupaca County.

The President's Statement

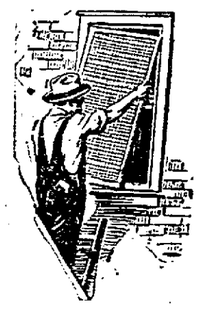

Making and selling paint products for over twenty-eight years, I realize that the cost of making, selling and delivering was a very expensive process. The man who used paint paid the high cost. High salaried salesmen, traveling expenses, hotel bills, expensive crating, draying and warehouses and finally the resale from stores, all these expenses just about double the price of paint.

The dictionary says DIRECT means the shortest distance between two points. The General Paint Co. was organized and incorporated with this ideal "Direct from factory to consumer".

This plan has proven a great success. It has saved paint buyers in this community thousands of dollars. No order is too small or too large for us to handle. Deliveries made everywhere without extra charge. Sound paint advise cheerfully given. We give you good paints only. Come in and look over our plant.

A. H. MILLEN, Pres.
